Since you may be busy in the Library or in the Grill or trying to get to that class by ten after, don't let us hinder you. We just wanted to remind you that this is your yearbook it's '41 and life has just begun! So don't wait, please turn the page!

NINETEEN FORTY-ONE

WOLVERINE

MICHIGAN STATE COLLEGE

EAST LANSING, MICHIGAN

ROBERT MERZ . . . Editor

JEAN BILLS . . Business Manager

FOR YOU WHO ARE GOING PLACES

AND FOR YOU WHOSE LIFE

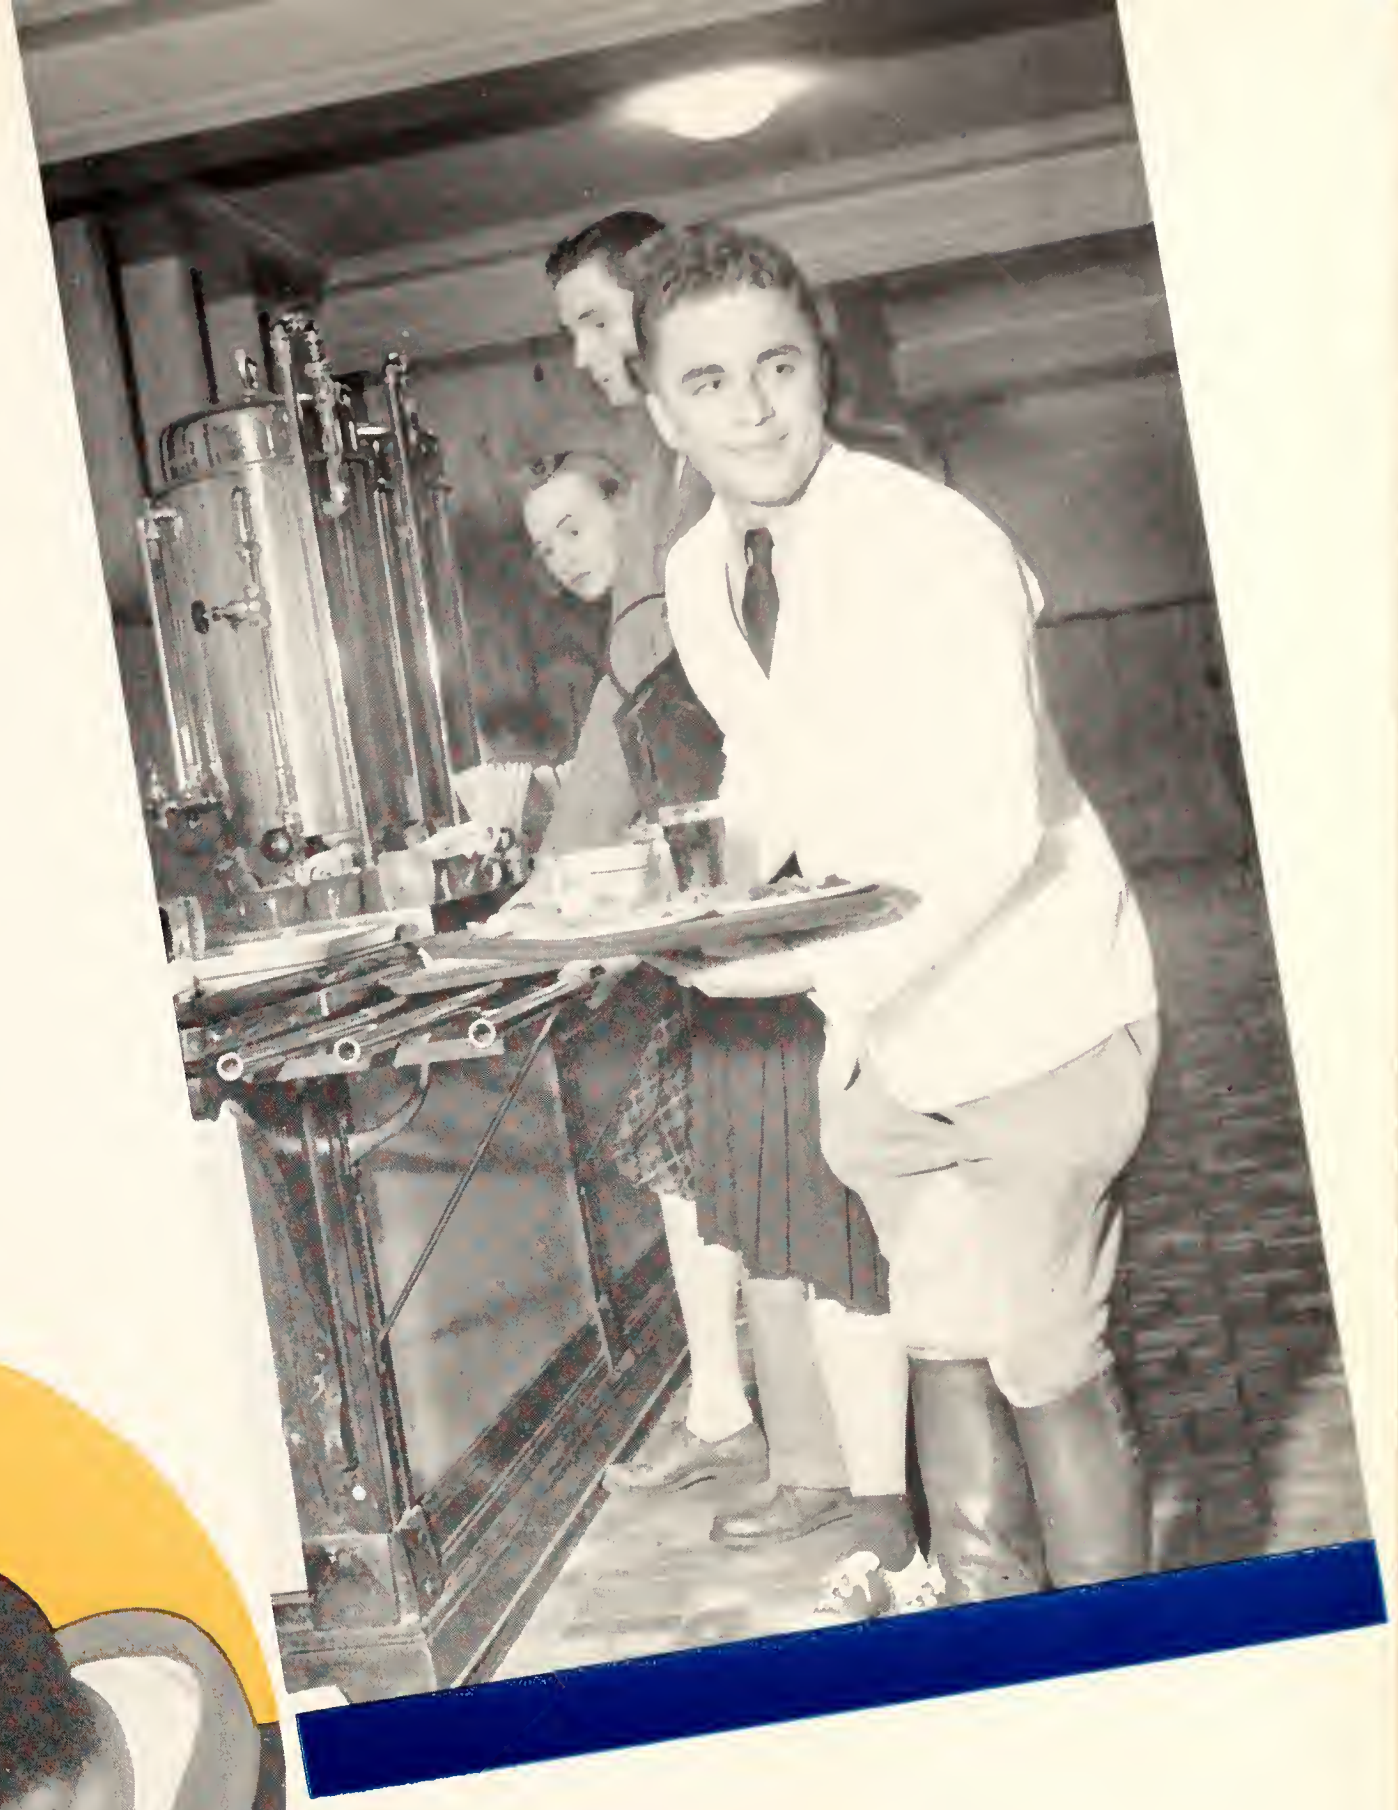
MAKES THIS BEAUTIFUL CAMPUS LIVE,

THIS BOOK HAS BEEN ORIGINATED

CHEMISTRY CAN BE SO INTERESTING

Judy Smith and Bill Morris.

COLLEGE . . . ITS COMPANIONSHIP . . .



A TRAY-ED THAT GETS HIM THROUGH SCHOOL.

ONE OF THE BETTER HABITS . . . UN-POSED

Lou Necci

ITS RELAXATION . . . ITS REQUIREMENTS

'ROUND AND 'ROUND AND IT'S BEAUTY AT EVERY STOP.

Reading from the top, clockwise—Doris Wanmaker, Betty Oakes, Marie Sheen, Bonnie Lesselyong, Ruth Hammond, Phyllis Dean, Lois Luecht, and Marilyn Reed.

SO I SAID TO THE GENERAL... BUT SAID, "YOU'RE IN THE ARMY NOW

THE BOND OF FRIENDSHIP . . .
A LOWLY HOT DOG

Margaret Crownovre, June Thomas, Arland Decker, and John Brach.

THE ARISE OF MANKIND IS DUE TO ALARMCLOCKS . . . DARN IT!

Bob Weyland

A JUG OF COKE . . .
A LOAF IN THE GRILL
. . . AND THOU.

Pat Thourlby, Georgia Eaegle.

MYRIAD OF REFLECTIONS . . . A PLAIN COKE, PLEASE

PEOPLE

Such as Most of the sixty-nine hundred who attend M.S.C. . . . You call them anything you can think of . . . the faculty calls them students . . . sometimes . . . and the campus wolves call them often . . . for these pictures make up the date bible. You'll see the mighty senior with his staggering list of activities . . . but he'll have to leave his activities behind and take nothing but his staggers. Also in this section we bow out President Shaw, who has helped our enrollment double, and salute John Hannah, new president and State's No. 1 promotion man. You get a look at the deans and faculty, too . . . and you see what you do when you're in class and lab . . . besides sleep and brown.

SENIORS

So the seniors are serious . . . the seniors are sad . . . the seniors are dignified . . . tell me another story, mother. The seniors are divided into two groups . . . the B.M.O.C.'s . . . and the ones who will graduate . . . they all must be congratualted . . . they got through.

But they don't look healthy . . . perhaps the work is getting them perhaps they're already dead and preserved . . . but look what they get for it . . . diplomas . . . pigskins for the football heros . . . sheepskins for the pretty misses who pulled the wool over the professors' eyes . . . cowskins for the rest . . . just some of the old bull . . . wonder how a senior would look in a mortar . . . bored?

SENIOR CLASS OFFICERS

Presenting the senior class officers . . . who made the best speeches and the rashest promises at the political rally . . .

. . . President Jim Otto, pride of the Hespies, whose activities are holding hands with Danamae Barton with Excalibur, Blue Key, and treasurer of I. F. C. as sidelines.

Sally Denman, queen of the Water Carnival, vice-president of the class . . . wears an Alpha Chi pin and a student council key . . .

The secretary who never took notes is Betty Johnston . . . a Kappa . . . always looks like Harpers's Bazaar.

Jon Rovick . . . whose line is something all State girls have heard about . . . first hand . . . treasurer of the class.

Water Carnival

People you will remember.

"As you go forth"--

M. S. C.'s unique pageant.

It used to be a hospital!

Sing sweetly, sisters!

No words necessary!

FACULTY ADVISORS

Dean Elisabeth Conrad
Miss Elizabeth Daniels
Mrs. Margaret Hearn

A. W. S. president and vice president, business manager of the Wolverine, three Phi Kappa Phi members, co-chairman of freshman orientation, six former Tower Guard members, and a corps sponsor are activities represented this year in the membership of Mortar Board, national senior women's honorary.

Formerly known as Sphinx, a local senior organization, the M.S.C. chapter was granted by Mortar Board in 1933.

Qualifications for membership in the society are scholarship, leadership, and service to the campus, as well as senior standing.

The purpose of Mortar Board is to provide for cooperation between campus societies, to maintain a high standard of leadership, to recognize and encourage leadership, and to stimulate and develop a finer type of college women.

In keeping with its stated aim, Mortar Board has sponsored several student-faculty coffees and instituted the marriage course during spring term for seniors.

Goal of hopeful B. M. O. C.'s on campus is Excalibur, senior men's service honorary. Three years of outstanding leadership and service are required for membership, which is limited to thirteen. Ten students are tapped at the Water Carnival and the remaining three at the annual dance.

The outstanding activity of Excalibur this year was the "Hello Week" and all-college dance, co-sponsored with Blue Key during registration week of winter term.

Unifying element of the organization is a luncheon meeting and bull session, held weekly or as often as the members can afford. Ranks were depleted during the year when Chet Aubuchon, Varsity Club prexy, did not return to school in the fall due to a serious illness. Jack Sinclair, State News editor, left school in the middle of winter term to accept a professional position.

JUNIORS

Gee! What an intellectual group . . . a class set for achievements in the world . . . oh, you think so too? . . . maybe we're both juniors. Really a great year . . . more fun . . . a little more studying . . . but it didn't become the center of interest . . . after all, things like the Michigan-Michigan State game are important . . . Homecoming . . . the mid-term jitters . . . Christmas vacation . . . biggest party of the year . . . the J-HOP . . . styled like Mrs. Astorbilt . . . the whirl of winter social events left us dizzy . . . maybe we are anyway. Spring term was a corker . . . Still no studying . . . parades . . . semi-formals . . . balmy breezes . . . canoes . . . the convertible with the top down . . . ain't college more fun than education?

PRESENTING THE JUNIOR CLASS OFFICERS—

Tom Connelly, leader of the class of '42, commonly known as the Cassopolis Flash, who made the amazing statement, "This is the best J-Hop that the class of '42 has ever put on."

Jane Clark, one of the Alpha Phi clan, and vice-president of the class . . . divides her time between A.W.S., Y.W.C.A. cabinet, and lots of dates.

Ruth Mary Stone, Ice Carnival Queen, who wears an Alpha Gam pin, and "Arm-in-armed" at the J-Hop grand march with President Shaw.

Treasurer Bob Gay, who just sits back and watches the money roll out . . . the red-head of the Farmhouse.

GRANVILLE SHARPE	Vice president
JOE GOUNDIE	Secretary-treasurer
DEAN KOCH	Corresponding secretary
RON HEATH	Adviser

Orchids go to Blue Key this year. At the national convention held in Kansas City, Missouri, during the Christmas holidays the Michigan State College chapter was acclaimed one of the three outstanding chapters in the country for service rendered to their college.

Projects which brought fame to Blue Key were the all-college dance and "Hello Week" held during registration week winter term, the publishing of a patron list for college parties, and the loaning of their bill-boards to non-profit campus groups.

Blue Key members each year select the girl who in their opinion comes closest to being their ideal. At the annual Sweetheart Ball held during spring term, Phyllis Dean, Lansing junior, was selected to reign as Blue Key Sweetheart for the coming year.

As a national honorary service fraternity, Blue Key selects its members on the basis of character, scholarship, leadership, initiative, and services. Juniors and seniors are eligible for tapping.

SOPHOMORES

Two years gone . . . it's an old story now . . . registrations are a snap . . . you aren't shocked at dean calls anymore. You recognize BMOC's and BWOC's on campus . . . a few recognize you . . . many familiar faces from some class somewhere . . . Wayne King at the Soph Prom and your very special date up from home . . . the Frosh-Soph brawl . . . Increased interest in sports due to that handsome guard on the team . . . More increased interest because of the blond next to you . . . No more Saturday classes to try to get out of . . . no more Freshman lectures . . . upper classman hours . . . avoiding 8:00 o'clocks. Campaigning for your roomie at spring elections . . . sporting your newly acquired pin . . . spending more afternoons in the Grill . . . less in the Library . . . Gee, college is fun.

Roger Blackwood, soph ringleader, runs from one meeting to another. He's a member of Student Council, Phi Delta Theta, and Green Helmet.

Vice-president Muriel Whiting, blonde, and a mighty nice one divides her time between working on the Spartan, Y. W. C. A., and swimming for the Theta's.

Margaret Burhans, one of our more scholarly gals is a member of Tower Guard and La Cofradia. She's not all bookworm, though; once you meet her, you'll know the worm has turned.

"Our boy Ed Sewell" as his Kappa Sig brothers call him, treasurer: his helping hand draws all the fellas, his darling accent gets the gals.

Tower Guard, Sophomore women's honorary, in its tenth anniversary is continuing to fulfill the purpose of the organization: to work for the advancement and recognition of Michigan State College, and to further the aims of aspiring and progressive women. In 1931 the Q Girls became Tower Guard, named for its unique meeting place, Beaumont Tower.

Tower Guard members are tapped on May 1 at the May Morning Sing on the basis of scholarship and potential leadership. Each girl chosen must have finished two terms of her freshman year and have an average of 2.1 for those terms, together with a participating interest in organizations as proof of both an ability and a willingness for leadership. This requirement for an interest in activities is equal in importance to the scholastic requirement, although Freshman women are not expected to be officers in the organizations.

Green Helmet honors those sophomore men who are outstanding in scholarship and leadership. Their 2.2 average scholarship requirement is the highest of any campus honorary. Those men, who as freshmen fulfilled this requirement and were also active in extra-curricular activities are inducted into membership fall term of their sophomore year.

Green Helmet assists in the orientation program for freshmen men and in promoting other activities. However its chief project is the sponsorship of the curriculum guidance conference each year. The success of this program at Michigan State has attracted attention in colleges all over the country. Something new this year was the spring term all-college review successfully staged by Green Helmet in conjunction with Tower Guard.

FRESHMEN

The trouble is every one thinks we're green . . . we know our way around . . . in six months we almost knew our way around the campus . . . knew all the telephone numbers in the girl's dorms . . . knew all the college officials . . . the campus cops too . . . knew that we were going to have a fight of some kind . . . it was the Soph-Frosh brawl . . . knew enough not to go next year . . . knew what college competition was . . . especially on the bumming corner . . . knew that those little envelopes at mid-term weren't fan mail . . . that dean knew me by my first name . . . the family became acquainted with the dean, too . . . in the wrong way . . . say, we'll be sophomores soon . . . almost.

STATE BOARD OF AGRICULTURE

The six-membered State Board of Agriculture, created by the legislature in 1861, exercises as its main objective the control and supervision of the college through adoption of those ordinances and regulations which benefit its operation. Two new members are elected biennially to serve six years, and the college president and state superintendent of public instruction are ex-officio members. Board members work without salary but receive the necessary expenses incurred in the performance of duties. The board conducts its business at regular monthly meetings. Further purposes encompass the establishment and regulation of the course of instruction and the granting of degrees. The power of appointing the secretary and treasurer of the college and the designation of duties and salaries of the college staff are vested in the Board.

RETIRING PRESIDENT ROBERT S. SHAW

resident Shaw describes his hobby of apples to Dean Mitchell

When, in June, President Robert Sidey Shaw bids "goodbye and good luck" to the class of '41 as they file across the graduation rostrum out of an academic into a harder, tougher world, he will be placing official approval on the last class to graduate under his administration.

For, on July 1, President Shaw, officially, but not in his heart, will leave the college beside the winding Cedar which he has served for 39 years, the last 13 as its executive head.

When Shaw came to MSC in 1902 as an already successful teacher of agriculture who had graduated from the Ontario Agricultural college, had been an instructor of animal husbandry at the University of Minnesota and a professor of agriculture at Montana college, he found Michigan State a thriving agricultural learning center.

When he leaves this summer he will go with the knowledge that, largely under his careful guiding, the small but mighty agricultural school has grown to a large and mighty cosmopolitan institution.

During his stay at MSC, Shaw served as a professor of agriculture, dean of the division, superintendent of the college farm, cting president and president in his own right. ucceeding Kenyon L. Butterfield in February, 928, he served as acting president for three onths and then became the State Board of griculture's official appointee to the position.

Since that time the college has more than ebled in enrollment, its physical size has doubled, nd its staff and activities have greatly increased. ddition of the college departments of speech, ublications, languages, art, hotel management nd physical education for women and the re-tablishment of the farm management program ave been only a few of the more notable ac-mplishments achieved during his tenure. Other cademic advances made under his administration clude the creation of a graduate school and the ddition of the offices of dean of men and of omen.

Shaw is going to retire to his farm home near st Lansing. But not to loaf. "I couldn't stand " he says, "to sit around and nap all day; or to sk in the sun and whittle on a stick." It'll be a fe bet that the class of '45 and '46 and the rest ill see him around now and then. And it will e safe to bet that the door of his home will be, the door of his office always was, wide open to st, present, and future students with a problem a yen to visit.

"Naturals" of President Shaw

Said Berkey, "About two years ago President Shaw indicated to me that it was his intention to retire from active duty at the end of the 1940-41 school year. On several occasions since that time he reiterated this intention and just lately suggested that the board take the proper steps to provide for his retirement and the selection of a successor.

"In losing Robert Sidey Shaw, Michigan State College is not only losing a great educator but a great man, one who has given his best to the college, both in years and effort. It is with great reluctance, personally and on behalf of the board, that I accept his resignation."

Referring to the board's decision in naming Hannah to succeed Shaw, Berkey explained that despite the fact that the college is rapidly outgrowing the confines of agricultural research and education it is the feeling of the board that the institution is still a primary center of agricultural learning and for that reason the most capable man in that field had been chosen for the presidency.

Although Pres. R. S. Shaw's decision to vacate the college presidency came as no surprise to William H. Berkey, Cassopolis publisher and chairman of the State Board of Agriculture, it was nevertheless "with regret" that he, acting for the board, accepted Shaw's resignation.

Berkey made the announcement following a special meeting of the board, Saturday night, Dec. 21, at the same time announcing that present board secretary, John Alfred Hannah, would succeed Shaw to the presidency.

Incoming and Retiring Presidents Confer

Secretary John A. Hannah, Incoming President

Gov. Murray "Pat" D. VanWagoner

When friends convinced capable, hard-hitting John lfred Hannah, several years ago, that he should rsake a political science career for one in agriculture, ey unknowingly assured Michigan State College of a resident.

As a graduate of Michigan State College in 1923, e became an extension worker in the college poultry sbandry department, and soon became an expert in e field. It was in 1935, while he was heading a oultry project for the United States Department of griculture, that he received a call to become secretary the college, and he has been the college's "man ehind the scenes" since that time.

When, on July 1, John A. Hannah, at 38, Michigan ate's youngest president, takes over the burden from tiring President Shaw, he will be a chief executive ell-fitted for his position.

Officials, students and friends of the college looked on the election, last November, of Murray D. Van Wagoner as governor of Michigan as a boon to the institution as well as the state. For here was a man, not only known by the college, but one who also knew the college. Frequently last winter he was seen on the campus for business or pleasure, in an official capacity or as a party guest.

Van Wagoner is a graduate of the University of Michigan engineering school. He began his political career as drain commissioner of Oakland County. Later He became state highway commissioner, and gained fame as an administrator and an improver of Michigan roads and scenic beauty.

Evidence of the governor's obvious interest in Michigan State came this winter when he lent his backing to requests for increased legislative appropriations.

C. O. Wilkins
Treasurer and Comptroller

Firmly established in the Administration building and the Union Annex are most of the college "business heads", the seven administrative officials who help govern college affairs. Their multiple duties include enforcing, in a nice sort of way, the rules made by the State Board of Agriculture, making a few rules of their own, and helping to solve student problems. Some of the administrative tasks, such as registration and classification, precede the beginning of classes, and others, supplement class room work. In short, no matter how novel or complex a student's problem is, one of these administrative officials will try to solve it.

At the regular April meeting of the State Board of Agriculture, Karl H. McDonel was appointed secretary of Michigan State College. Mr. McDonel, who graduated from State in 1916, had been assistant extension of the college for 14 years.

Michigan Agricultural College, the first state institution in the world founded for the purpose of offering scientific and practical instruction in Agriculture, is still recognized as one of the leading Agricultural institutions in the country. Since the founding date of 1855 the name has been changed to Michigan State College, but the aims of the division in fitting the students to practical and technical phases of the entire field have remained the same. Modern training is based upon an understanding of the sciences and knowledge of effective farm practices and marketing.

The Division of Agriculture offers four general series of courses: General Agriculturel, Horticulturel, Landscape Architecture and Forestry.

The growth of the division has been almost a perfect parallel with that of the college as a whole. There are 112% more students in this division than there were twelve years ago when the Agriculture Building was turned over to the division. At the present time 850 students are enrolled. This doesn't include an additional 250 taking short courses. The teaching staff of this division is approximately 260 members.

In 1888 an experimental station was organized for the purpose of conducting research in the state's agricultural industries. To provide a means of disseminating the results of the experimental station, the extension division was formed to handle bulletins and scientific articles. An additional function of the division is to sponsor short courses which are an intensive and practical training, lasting from one to thirty-two weeks.

More room is the worry of this division as it is with other departments. In this case it is laboratory space, since such rooms have to be particularly fitted. Lecture room has been scheduled in other buildings on campus. When Dean Anthony was questioned about the removal of the Publications Department from the Ag Building, he said, "It would help, but we need ten times that amount of space."

ENGINEERING

Engineering was required in the college curriculum at the early date of 1862 by the passage of the Morrill Act. However, it was not until the spring of 1885 that the State Board of Agriculture announced the creation of a department of mechanic arts which was to be opened the following fall. This department was the forerunner of the present Division of Engineering established in 1909.

The aims of the Engineering division are to give the students a training in fundamental principles of sciences which are the basis of engineering practice. Through the freshman and sophomore years the courses are basic, because the student is not certain whether he wants to major in Mechanical, Chemical, Civil, or Electrical Engineering, while in the last two years the specialized work is completed. The curriculum of an engineer includes much required work and the division operates with a series of set schedules rather than a series of set rules. Strict training necessitates engineers electing a field instead of courses.

Engineering division enrollment has more than doubled in the last eight years. To instruct the 958 engineers and 425 students from other divisions the staff has been increased to 59 members.

With the help of $150,000 a donation from Mr. R. E. Olds, the present Olds Hall of Engineering was constructed in 1916 after the old building was razed by fire. Even with this building the division has space worries. Space in the power lab is definitely needed. It is the only department which has not had an addition since 1916.

D I V I S I O N

Granting of permission to ten young women to enroll in Michigan Agricultural College in 1870 proved to be the forerunner of the present Home Economics division. When the college was founded, no thought had been given to establishing courses in higher education for women. This department, authorized in 1896, was called Domestic Economy and Household Science. In 1909 a separate division of Home Economics was established.

Today this division offers a study of the problems of the home and family and includes a broad field touching many phases of human activity rather than one of limited subject matter. Through research in science and arts, women receive a broad cultural education particularly suited to their needs and interests. Home Economics has seven fields of specialized work, namely: Foods and Nutrition, Institution Administration, Clothing, Related Arts, Teaching, Home Economics and Nursing, and General Home Economics. Work in any one of these groups is practically the same the first two years, specialization coming in the junior and senior years.

Placement of students is no problem since the wide variety of training causes the demand for graduates to be greater than the supply. Most students plan to teach, but many prepare themselves to be extension workers, cafeteria and tearoom managers, dietitians, stylists and directors of experimental kitchens for food and equipment companies. 400 students were enrolled in 1929. Today there are approximately 1,100 students, making this division of M.S.C. the second largest in the United States.

The growth of this department has also paralled the growth of the college. As a result of this the legislature granted money for a new building in 1899. Continued growth made still a larger building necessary, and in 1924 the present Home Ec Building was dedicated. This added room didn't stop the expansion. According to Dean Dye the division still lacks room, and is still growing. Crowded conditions make it necessary to hold classes until 6 p.m. Laboratory, office and research space are most necessary.

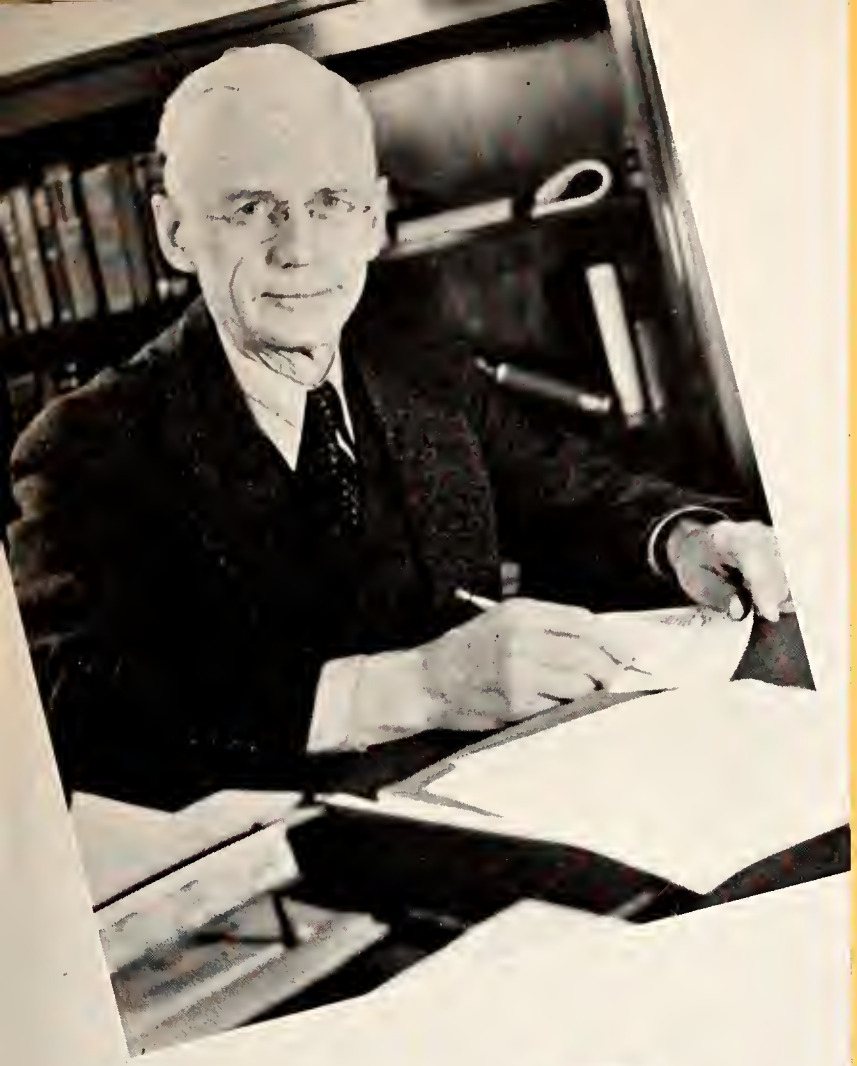
VETERINARY



Public Act 97, State Legislature, May 22, 1907, "An Act to Provide for the Establishment of a Department of Veterinary Science at M.A.C."

This act established the Vet Division and made M.A.C. one of the ten colleges in the country offering such work. However, as far back as 1881-1883 the idea was shaping into reality. Veterinary lectures were taught every term for seniors. This preliminary work prompted the State Board of Agriculture to appoint a committee to study the establishment of such a department. Shortly after the board received a favorable report, it secured legislative action.

The aim of the division is to train its students to be competent veterinarians in recognizing, coping with, and suppressing animal diseases, and at the same time to cooperate in the protection of human health against diseases of animal origin. Emphasis is also placed on studying diseases of pet stock and fur bearing animals.

Enrollment in this division broke a record last year with 446 students. Overcrowding in other professions, undermanning in the veterinary profession, increasing veterinary work—private, state and federal, are some of the factors that explain the increase.

The Dean's office is now in the Bacteriology building. Over three thousand registrations made it necessary to split up departmental work until it is now housed in the basement of Psychology Building, the Veterinary Clinic addition, the old Animal Clinic and the Bacteriology Laboratory. The housing problem makes administration extremely difficult. According to Dean Giltner, attention should be given to the construction of a laboratory of bacteriology, parasitology, and hygiene. Such plans have been presented to the state administration as a part of the college building program.

S C I E N C E

Applied Science, founded in 1921 as a separate division of the college, indicates the unusual emphasis placed on science, since most schools combine their courses in the arts with those of science. The division requires some 108 staff members who teach in one of the four series: Applied Science, Physical Education for Men, Physical Education for Women, and Police Administration. Graduates from this division receive a Bachelor of Science degree.

The basic aims of the division are to give students not only a sound fundamental knowledge of the sciences pursued, but also to indicate the practical application of course work in industry, agriculture and the arts. Pre-medical and pre-dental students take the same course with slight modification. In the Physical Education course the splendid facilities have allowed the department to offer both men and women excellent opportunities in coaching and teaching. Police Administration is offered in a four year course, military training being required each year. M.S.C. is one of the two schools in the country having such a program. This course is administered with the cooperation of the Michigan State Police.

Many students who are enrolled in other divisions take Applied Science courses, as all students must take some science regardless of their division. This, plus the rapid growth of the college, has increased the enrollment from 180 in 1930 to nearly 1,100 students today. A ten-fold increase in students has been met with but two increases in physical facilities. At the present time the work of the Applied Science division is scattered in some nine buildings, Botany, Entomology, Morrill Hall, Jenison Fieldhouse, Women's Gymnasium, Physics, State Police Barracks, Chemistry, and Veterinary Clinic. Dean Huston indicates that even though this seems to be adequate space, the division has had to turn students away, refuse admission to graduate students, and run night classes because of the cramped quarters during the last few years.

LIBERAL

ARTS

Liberal Arts is the youngest division of the college. It was established in 1924 when there was a demand on the part of the student body for a general cultural course, and a faculty demand to be able to teach courses in their specialized fields. Michigan State is one of the few colleges offering Liberal Arts as a separate division, as in most schools it is combined with Applied Science.

The basic aims of the division are two-fold: to render service to technical divisions by offering cultural and semi-applied courses, and to blend the courses to various departments with a few technical ones to constitute a general education and sufficient specialization to earn a living. To achieve this there are five curricula offered, namely; Liberal Arts, Business Administration, Music, Hotel Administration, and Public Administration. It requires 202 members to man this division with its twelve departments. There were 25 students in the Liberal Arts division when it began in 1924; the fall of 1940 showed 2,192 registrations. The general college increase has been about 97.3 per cent while the L.A. division fell just a little short of the all-college gain with 91.8 per cent increase. Despite the fact that this is the largest division on the campus there is no serious space problem at the present time.

Two points are unique about the Liberal Arts division: first, it offers a four year course in Hotel Administration. Only one other college in the United States offers this. The second favorable point is that the division offers the most elastic curriculum possible among all the college courses. The student is held to only about 35% required courses, and only 20% of the work is taken outside the division. This is unique because, unlike many colleges, students are offered several electives in the Liberal Arts division.

1941 marks the first year for Student Council, campus governing body, to have an office. With the designation of 118 in the Union Annex as its sanctum, the council has purchased a filing cabinet, typewriter, and shelves.

Building up the files in order to better coordinate student activities has been one of the major interests of the council this year. A complete file, so that the efforts of one year do not duplicate the next, is the basis of any successful government, the council feels.

Another aim of student council this year has been to strengthen subsidiary organizations at Michigan State. Formation of Divisional and Men's councils has been part of this program.

Another interesting activity of the council was the corsage ban election held January 31, in which the ban was approved by the student body.

As a member of the National Student Federation of America, Michigan State sends delegates to the Federation's national and regional conferences. The Regional conference was held at State this year, April 11-13; the national meeting was held at the New Jersey College for Women, New Brunswick, N. J.

RICHARD GROENING

Student Council President

Dick Groening, pride of Ludington and of the Sigma Nus, has had his share of honors during his four years at State. He was one of the founders of Green Helmet in his sophomore year, and was chosen the next years for membership in Blue Key and Excalibur. The sophomore class elected him class treasurer and the junior class elected him Student Council representative. This year Council members appointed him their president. In the latter capacity he is also on the Board of Publications.

Dick was chairman of the Vocations Conference in 1940. He is a cadet major in the Field Artillery. He was initiated into Sigma Epsilon and Phi Kappa Phi, scholastic honoraries, and has been recognized nationally by Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

Associated Women Students is an organization in which every woman student on campus automatically, upon registration in college, becomes a member.

The purpose of the organization is to further the interests of the women students and to help maintain high social and moral standards in college.

Women students have representation on the AWS Council, the governing body, by members elected by the women from each class. The presidents and chairmen of the women's organizations become members of the Council. Judiciary Board, acting as the disciplinary and jurisdictional body for the women, is composed of the dormitory presidents and representatives of cooperative, off-campus, and sorority houses. During the year the off-campus area was zoned to better coordinate the women living there.

Through the Freshman Counsellor and Freshman Orientation systems sponsored by AWS the freshmen women are better acquainted with the college life. The Co-ed Carnival, a function which presents organizations whose membership is open to women students, is also carried out by AWS.

This year an effort to permit more women to become the leaders of organizations has grown out of the point limitation system established by AWS.

Marge Baldwin of Birmingham has given Chi Omegas plenty of reasons to be proud of her. She is one of those girls who has kept her average up, as is shown by her initiation into Tower Guard and Mortar Board, has been in a great many activities,and has still had time for plenty of fun.

Two of her activities, State News and Wolverine, resulted in her initiation into Matrix. She has been elected to Y. W. C. A. Cabinet, W. A. A. Board, Student Council, and is on the Board of Publications. Because of all these honors, Marge was chosen for Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

UNION BOARD

Purpose of the Union Board is to increase student interest in the Union Building, recreationally and socially, and to cooperate with B. R. Proux in managing the building.

Six student representatives—three senior classmen, two juniors, and one sophomore—are elected each spring term at general election.

The board's quota of regular services includes Friday night Union dances, tea dances, a Sunday afternoon classical music program, and the Wednesday Quarterback, a post-game review of each football game during fall term.

Two members are appointed to welcome freshmen at convocations during fall term Freshman week.

This year's particular aim of the Union administration is the establishment of a student recreational program in the Union. It will include ping-pong, cards, and other indoor games.

An organization of college men never insulted by a shout of "Cow College" is the Agricultural Council. Membership of this group is composed of one representative from each class, one from each of 13 Ag clubs on campus, the student council representative from the division, and six faculty men.

Ag men point rather proudly to the fact that the framework for their council was used last year to reorganize membership and system of government of the Student Council.

Five traditional activities on the calendar of every Ag student are the All-Ag mixer and Harvest ball during fall term, Ag-Achievement banquet winter term, and Coronation ball and Ag field day in spring term. Planning and execution of these events is a duty of the Ag council.

LOU NECCI

Gaining 11 new members in the winter term membership drive, Independent Student Association has now 1300 members on the campus.

Formed by the merging of Independent Men's League and the Athenians in the spring term of 1940, I.S.A. strives to sponsor scholarship, an intramural sports program and promote interest in campus affairs and problems, as well as present a rounded social program for its members.

The I.S.A. council, headed by Pres. Louis Necci, meets twice a month on Thursdays. Off-campus women, off-campus men, dormitory women, and dormitory men elect officers who attend council meetings, report back to their group, and bring all complaints, suggestions and business to the council.

I.S.A. is the sponsor, the Social Bureau which arranges "coke dates" as well as mass blind dates.

At present, Men's Council is still in the formative stage and is gradually taking over duties. Its first big job was men's freshman orientation. A definite construction orientation program was planned and carried out this fall. Next year freshman men will have big brothers assigned to them on a divisional basis.

The second major job the Council has undertaken is the reclassification of campus organizations to designate priority. When this is done, the Council, working with A. W. S., will try to set up an all college calendar.

The Council was organized spring term, 1940 with a governing system comparable to A.W.S.

Spartan Women's League, to which any woman enrolled at M.S.C. may belong, began furthering their ideal of "democracy among State women" during the summer when the S.W.L. board gave prospective State women their first taste of college spirit in the form of pamphlets describing the campus and group activities.

As a yearly project, the organization published a college etiquette book which, along with their program of social dancing classes, helps students to more fully enjoy campus functions.

Social activities of the group consist of the Coed Carnival and Spinster's Spin, the campus-girls only bid formal which is sponsored in cooperation with Mortar Board and Tower Guard. S.W.L. assisted in the planning of the Winter Carnival, gave teas for transfer women, new faculty members, and the annual tea for senior women.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

Busy as the proverbial bee with buffet suppers for short course girls, teas, style shows, radio broadcasts, choosing of the cherry queen, a gift shop at Christmas, serving meals during Farmers' Week, a formal banquet, the club still has time for regular and special monthly meetings, and board meetings.

Every student enrolled in the division of Home Economics is an associate member and may become an active by indicating her interest and by abiding by the rules. The Home Economics faculty are honorary members.

To work on subjects of professional and general interest related to Home Economics and to bring the students and faculty together in a unified program of activity is the purpose of the club.

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS

How times change . . . how the State News has changed . . . and we're practically out of change.

First, Jack Sinclair, managing editor and Dave Tefft, graduate manager, resigned winter term to accept positions on the Ann Arbor News. Tom Greene, associate editor, was appointed by the Board of Publications to fill the editor's chair. No graduate manager was appointed. Reporter Sid Levy was promoted to Tom's old job.

Still more happened. Don Way, associate editor, was offered an announcing job on WKAR which he accepted. His vacated position was filled by Len Barnes, State News reporter.

Charlie Foo, associate editor, then chose to work on the business staff and also do some outside reporting left open by Tefft's resignation. Dave Jones was recruited for Charlie's former job.

In spite of all the change's, the State News has continued to publish campus news in good journalism style.

SPARTAN

We hear a fearful clacking of typewriters. A guy crosses Grand River Avenue with copy streaming in the air. The old Music-Center building swings on its door. The Spartan is going to press.

In the office Editor Brigham is drinking rubber cement . . . and sticking to his typewriter. Associates are chained to their desks . . . frothing at the mouth, they turn out news, features, jokes and quips . . . and we'll shoot you Brigham, if you turn out Sandra Sue.

Jokes are read. A guy laughs once; print it once . . . two laughs; print it twice . . . no laughs; all other college magazines reprint it.

The staff is wide awake . . . no sleep in three nights . . . but a thirty-five per cent increase in circulation proves that the Spartan is a permanent State publication. Nice going.

BUSINESS MANAGER ART HOWLAND

Advertising at a new high . . . a thirty percent increase over last year . . . more than ever before in Spartan history. Business Manager Art Howland and his crew said, "Make the merchants scream for the Spartan, not at it." They did. Even the U. S. Post Office had an ad. All approved by Good Housekeeping Institute, too, and the ad was not paid for by the friends of the post office.

We don't know who sold it . . . or how they collected . . . but it indicates our humor magazine has new enthusiasm and new life. Again may we say, "Nice going."

The M.S.C. Veterinarian is the newest addition to the family of Michigan State College publications, but the most unique in many respects. It is purely a scientific journal, the first of its kind on this campus, and the first of its kind east of the Mississippi river. Its work has been pioneered by a handful of junior and senior veterinary students, and in its first year of publication the M.S.C. Veterinarian boasts a subscription list covering 32 states, 2 territories and 3 foreign countries.

The M.S.C. Veterinarian is published on a quarterly basis, and has brought a great deal of honor to Michigan State College and the Veterinary division.

Sigma Delta Chi, a national professional fraternity for journalism majors, has completed one year at M.S.C. It was formerly known as N.W.S. Membership requirements are: to have a desire to enter the journalism profession, and to work on a college publication.

A Collegiate Press convention is sponsored annually by Sigma Delta Chi, which this year drew a hundred and fifty members from over twenty colleges and universities.

State's annual Student Directory is published by Sigma Delta Chi. Phone numbers, addresses, home towns and pertinent information answer the demands for such a service.

Professional meetings are held at least once a month at which speakers with interesting topics are scheduled.

The national convention at Des Moines, Iowa was attended by Earl Brigham, fall term president.

DRAMATICS

Don Buell and Doc Thompson

If a person wants to copy Towne and Baker, Hollywood producers, and say that, "The play's the thing", they could do it and be correct when describing the type of dramatic productions being produced at Fairchild Theatre. Increased numbers in attendance are proof that Dr. W. Fawcett Thompson and his assistant Don Buell are making the people of Michigan State dramatic minded. This is Thompson's and Buell's fourth and fifth year of play direction at State. C. H. Nickle, a veteran of ten years experience, handles production and lighting. This experience coupled with new Auditorium facilities, and interesting ideas for productions promises a continuation of the present type of plays. An effort was made this year to select plays a little out of the ordinary and cater to the artistic tastes of college audiences.

Theta Alpha Phi, State's only honorary dramatics fraternity was organized 17 years ago as a means of recognizing worthy participants in campus dramatics.

Membership in Theta Alpha Phi is restricted to those who have taken part in two or more important campus productions. Off-stage workers and directors are also considered for membership.

Under the leadership of Dean Koch, president, and C. H. Nickle, faculty advisor, Theta Alpha Phi promoted one modern all-college play each term and a Shakespearian production was given in the band shell during spring term.

Pi Kappa Delta, largest national speech honorary, has been established at Michigan State since 1921. Its admirable purpose, plain to see, is to promote excellence in forensic activity. To encourage the fulfillment of its aim, students must take part in ten decision debates to become members of the fraternity.

Shining light of Pi Kappa Delta is President Ida May Stevens, who won the last provincial extemporary contest for women. Members also proudly point to J. D. Menchofer, their advisor, Prof. Knappen, Dr. Hayworth, R. G. Turner, and P. D. Bagwell as faculty men who belong to Pi Kappa Delta and who help the group in their work.

Pi Kappa Delta sponsors a program of luncheons, regular meetings, and general get-togethers which allow for plenty of fun and chatter free of the highbrow techniques of public speaking.

Each fall term the speech department holds tryouts to select twelve men to make up six teams, to represent the college in intercollegiate debates.

The debate question this year is "Resolved: Nations of the Western Hemisphere should form a permanent union." Demonstration debates are presented before Granges, P.T.A. meetings, high schools and public organizations. The squad has entered the tournaments of the Michigan Inter-collegiate Speech League, the Illinois State Normal University, the Manchester-Huntington Invitational, the Delta Sigma Rho, the Phi Kappa Delta Provincial, and the Grand Eastern Debate League.

The Women's Debate Squad undertook a more active schedule than usual this year, participating in a large number of grange debates.

Early in the season, the squad journeyed to Normal, Illinois, to a large pre-season meet, and a couple of weeks later, placed second in a practice tournament of the Michigan colleges at Kalamazoo. The highlight of the season was the trip to Wayne University where the Spartan debaters finished in second place in the state tournament, the highest rank earned in a number of years.

Participating with the men at Manchester, Indiana, in the largest practice meet in the central west, the women's squad won thirteen and lost four to place M.S.C. third in the first division (67 schools) and first in the second division.

To finish a successful season, the squad participated in the Delta Sigma Rho Tournament at Madison, Wisconsin, the all-freshman tournament at Kalamazoo, the regional Pi Kappa Delta meet in East Lansing, and the Grand Eastern Tournament at Winthrop, South Carolina.

The local chapter of Orchesis was founded at Michigan State college in 1928. The purpose of Orchesis is to promote an appreciation of the dance on the Michigan State college campus. Orchesis does folk, modern, ballet, and romantic dancing, but particularly stresses modern dancing.

Fall term the sorority presented programs before the Pen club, Football Bust, Co-ed Carnival, and gave demonstrations before women trying out for membership.

Winter term Orchesis gave lecture demonstrations for Independent students and faculty women.

Orchesis will combine with the Glee club spring term to present a program before an all-college audience.

Beta Alpha Sigma, local landscape architecture, floriculture, and allied arts honorary, meets every Thursday. Its members are chosen from juniors majoring in landscape architecture, floriculture, or one of the allied arts and have a two-point average in their major.

The organization held the Art Mart in May last year. All entries were made by students. Each person attending was allowed to vote for the entry he liked best in each of the four divisions. Prizes were given to winning participants. Later, etchings of Frank Waugh of Massachusetts were exhibited.

To further scholastic attainment and advancement in appreciation and knowledge in the fields it represents, are the purposes of the fraternity.

BETA ALPHA SIGMA

MUSIC

The close of this school year marks the fourteenth year that a separate course in music has been in existence at Michigan State College. However, classes were taught in glee club and similar subjects previous to this time.

Since 1927 the music course has expanded to include two curricula in public school music, one in general supervision, and one in instrumental supervision. In addition the music department sponsors an all college chorus, men's and women's glee clubs, a cappella choir, band and symphony orchestra. All these organizations make public appearances throughout the year.

Presenting the Michigan State College band whose precise and intricate formations play an important role in filling the grandstands during the football season whose stirring music sets the pace in the spring when military troops pass in review; whose ability represents MSC at festivals throughout the state.

The band, a branch of R.O.T.C., is composed of approximately 100 members. Membership is determined by tryouts, making all positions competitive except for a few who are playing on musical scholarships. These scholarships were earned through superior ability in high school musical activities.

Long, tedious hours are spent in drilling to obtain the minute precision required of a military band. Directorship has been under L. V. Falcone, who has had the post for several years.

SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

Members of the Michigan State College symphony orchestra not only enjoy making music themselves, but help others enjoy fine music.

Beginning winter term the symphony organization sponsored a Sunday afternoon listening time in the Music auditorium open to anyone who wished to hear the broadcast of the New York Philharmonic symphony orchestra without the usual interruptions.

The orchestra, beginning with a membership of 30 in 1929 upon introduction of the music department in the college, now has over 45 members. Prof. Alexander Schuster has acted as director for the past three years.

December 11, the orchestra accompanied the guest cellist, Gregor Piatigorski. For the March 14 concert F. Mannheim, new head of the college piano department, acted as solist. Faculty members Francis Aranyi and Schuster figured in the orchestra's presentation April 25.

Gamma Epsilon chapter of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, the only men's music society on campus, honored and was honored during the year. Honor from the chapter went to Leonard Falcone, director of the M.S.C. military band, who was made an honorary member. Honor came to the chapter in the election of Prof. R. L. Underwood, faculty member, as governor of the central province at the Sinfonia national convention.

The chapter, now three years old, initiated six whom it felt had contributed something to music, and whom it believed had shown ability and genuine interest in music. All were music majors, though this is not a requirement for membership.

In keeping with its purpose—the advancement of finer music in America—Sinfonia continued its weekly programs of American music. A newly-inaugurated project was a series of speakers from departments outside the music field.

CHORUS

ARNOLD SCHULTZ . . President

FAITH PARKYN . . Vice-president

DORIS ANDERSON . . . Secretary

First public appearance of the Michigan State all-college chorus this year was a Christmas program in Fairchild theater. A winter concert, given with the band, and baccalaureate sing in the band shell rounded-out the main activities of the chorus this year.

The all-college chorus is open to any student who can carry a tune and read music. The group, starting its second year as an organization, is under direction of Prof. William Kimmel, who has completed six years in the music department.

Outside of making horrible faces while they are singing, chorus members carry on horseplay only behind his back, Director Kimmel claims.

A CAPELLA CHOIR

Founded five years ago by William B. Kimmel, the choir became of age this winter when it acquired black robes for its winter and spring concerts.

Admission is gained by competitive audition and this year fifty-five men and women passed the high required entrance standard. Mr. Kimmel rehearses this group three hours a week during fall term. The numbers rehearsed at this time are then woven into a varied musical program for use on the trips taken by the choir during winter and spring terms.

As the last note fades in the last concert this spring Mr. Kimmel leaves the stand for a years work on his P.H.D. in Music, leaving behind him an organization noted for its secular and sacred selections and which specialized in liturgical pieces.

The Women's Glee Club offers an excellent medium of expression to girls who wish to participate in singing. The club is open to women students of all divisions. Members are chosen by the directoress and are selected on the basis of their voice quality, musical ability, and blending possibilities.

The club meets regularly twice a week in the Music Building and rehearses under the direction of Miss Josephine Kackley, professor of music. The organization receives many invitations to sing at college functions and various activities in Lansing. Besides this, the Glee Club has taken several trips throughout the state to give concerts. The high point of the Club's year is its Spring Concert open to faculty, students, and public.

The Club also has a social program consisting of picnics, buffet suppers, teas, and a formal banquet at which awards are given to girls who have been active members of the organization for three or four years.

All activities of the Michigan State chapter of the junior section of the American Society of Agronomy point towards a high scholarship and future community leadership. Group meetings are held every two weeks, social meetings are intermingled, and guest speakers hold discussions with the group.

The fraternity annually sponsors the Farm Crops Judging Team which annually competes in a number of inter-collegiate contests such as the National Inter-Collegiate Crops Judging contest at Kansas City and International Crops contest at Chicago.

One of the oldest campus organizations, the Agronomy Club's only requirement for membership is that the student be a major in the farm crops or soils departments of the Agriculture division.

FARM CROPS JUDGING TEAM

To compete with students from 12 other agricultural colleges, the Farm Crops Judging Team members are four upperclassmen who rank highest in a grading class instructed by H. R. Pettigrove, assistant professor of farm crops.

Ray Elbing, Emerson Meyers, Robert Tice, and William Westrate composed the team which entered the Intercollegiate Crops contest for the seventeenth year at the International Hay and Grain show in Chicago in November.

The contest is based on three phases of crop knowledge; market grading of samples prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture, seed judging, and crop identification. In identifying, contestants must be able to give the variety and crop, Latin name, and growing regions for 187 crops.

Professor Pettigrove serves as chairman of coaches for this contest, sponsored by the Chicago Board of Trade and the International Livestock Exposition.

Kedzie chapter of Alpha Zeta, named in honor of the late Frank Kedzie, former president of Michigan State college, is one of 43 chapters of Alpha Zeta located at agricultural colleges.

With scholarship, activities, and leadership the main points on which members are selected for this agricultural honorary, Alpha Zeta has 19 active members and 87 faculty and graduate members at MSC. Its purpose is to encourage scholarship, leadership, moral character, and to promote student and faculty relations.

Honorary members of the Michigan State chapter, founded in 1902, are President Robert S. Shaw, Dean Ward Giltner, Dean E. L. Anthony, Dean E. A. Bessey, Professor Howard C. Rather, and Professor E. B. Hill.

The plans the group has made for this year include improvements on the chapter room in Ag hall and opening the room for the use of other agricultural clubs, committee meetings, and student study and browsing.

Originating on this campus in winter term of 1937, the Agricultural Engineering club was accepted into the American Society of Agricultural Engineers on February 22, 1939. Membership in this professional fraternity is open to any interested student who is taking his major work in Agricultural Engineering courses.

At bi-monthly meetings, throughout the school year, speakers are asked to discuss, with the members, such topics as are connected with the practical application of theories learned while in school.

The Farm Equipment Institute and the Machinery Seminar sponsor an inspection trip each summer which is attended by two student delegates of the Society, one faculty member, and a representative from farm management. The four make a tour of leading farm implement manufacturing companies to become better acquainted with the industry.

Block and Bridle, national animal husbandry fraternity is open to all students majoring in Animal Husbandry or Veterinary Science. The Michigan State chapter was formed in 1930.

Chief aim of the organization is to stimulate interest in animal husbandry, and to give its members a better understanding of their chosen profession.

The organization sponsors a junior and senior Animal Husbandry livestock judging team, aiding them financially and encouraging students to participate in all phases of livestock judging. The judging team competes against teams from other colleges throughout the country.

While rounding up the finer points on beef-cattle, sheep, draft horses, and hogs this fall, Coach George Propp and his seven-man Judging team covered 4,500 miles.

The team started off early with week-end visits to Ohio State, Indiana, and Purdue, to whom Michigan State college later played host. A swing west to the American Royal at Kansas City was a good warm up before the high spot of the year—the International Livestock show at Chicago, at which the team competed with teams from 31 other colleges.

Members of the Judging team are all seniors, and all Michiganders this year. The team has no officers, and its activities all take place during fall term.

The Stock Judging team was orginally organized to promote knowledge of livestock anatomy. It is supported by the college through animal husbandry department and by Block and Bridle club.

Traditional activities sponsored by the Dairy club during the past year include operation of a cafeteria during Farmers' Week, the "Bean Feed", an annual alumni breakfast on Homecoming Day, participation in intramural athletics, and spring outings.

The purpose of the Dairy Club is to form a common bond for all students interested in dairying and its advancement. The club finances both the Dairy Cattle Judging Team and the Dairy Products Judging Team.

The membership of the organization is open to all students who are interested in Dairying as a profession or who are taking Dairy courses. They devote much of their time in business meetings to lectures by prominent men of the dairying profession.

The Hort Club meets bi-monthly to consider and discuss things horticultural. They gather to plan activities such as the Hort Club stand during Farmer's Week or pruning jobs during spring vacation. They manage a part of the college orchards and sell the harvested apples to students in the Hort Building. They go on barbecues and picnics in the fall andspring, drink cider from the jug, and bake squash in hot coals.

Anyone who is interested in horticulture is invited to attend the meetings. Most of the members are, of course, drawn from pomology, floriculture, and vegetable gardening. These students seggregate into their various departments only to set up Farmer's Week Exhibits. In normal times they all work together to further the interests of horticulture.

Three men were considered outstanding in the floriculture field and were inducted at the annual banquet spring term. P. R. Krone became faculty adviser with Carrick Wildon.

Students wishing to organize and promote a closer relationship between students and members of the faculty interested in poultry raising founded the Poultry Club in 1939.

The sponsoring of stands during Farmers Week and Junior Farmers Week is one of the clubs chief activities, the receipts of which are used to defray the clubs expenses. This year the club widened its activities by sponsoring a judging team to represent the college at the National Mid-Western Intercollegiate Poultry Judging Contest held in Chicago.

The aim of the organization is to raise the scholarship of students of poultry husbandry and to further the students' interest in their curricula through social activities and discussions of the various phases of poultry.

Membership is open to all students interested in making poultry raising their profession, or to those students taking a major portion of their credits in some phase of poultry husbandry.

"Alpha Phi Omega at Your Service." With this motto, A.P.O., national service fraternity, conducts its activities for the purpose of "assembling college men in fellowship of the scout oath and law, developing friendship, and promoting service to humanity."

At Michigan State College, Alpha Phi Omega sponsors the winter carnival, the "keep off the grass" campaign, the interfraternity sing, the homecoming dance, loans for needy students, assists the deans during Freshman Week, handles the Freshman Visitation program, and has an information booth during Farmer's Week.

Being a service fraternity, Alpha Phi Omega crosses all lines of honorary, social, and professional fraternities, and members of other campus organizations may also be active in this fraternity. Two fundamental requirements for membership are: first, previous training in Boy Scout movements; second, an earnest desire to render service to others.

Outstanding in the year's activities of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers was the fall term banquet. It is hoped this occasion may become an annual affair. At this first banquet the principal speaker was Professor A. H. White, head of the chemical engineering department, at the University of Michigan.

The scholastic year 1940-1941 was a very successful one for the society, for it marked an increase in membership of almost 50 per cent, and brought indications that the Chapter, which was organized in 1937, was now definitely established and beginning to influence the activity of the Division of Engineering. A new faculty member also joined the organization when Professor C. C. De Witt, new head of the department, succeeded the late Professor Publow.

During the past year, men from various industries have spoken at the chapter meetings, and have done much to give the undergraduate chemical engineer an insight into the work that is being done, and how his profession is being applied in the industrial world.

All members of the Electrical Engineering department are invited to become members of the Michigan State college branch of American Institute of Electrical Engineering, national professional fraternity. The local chapter functions as a member of and carries on duties similar to those of the national fraternity. Founded by M. M. Cory in 1918, the organization creates a closer relationship between students of electrical engineering and faculty.

"A-I-double E", as it is known to members, sponsors inspection trips through nearby leading manufacturing plants several times each year. Members are kept in touch with advances in the professional field by prominent speakers.

By showing several exhibits each year, notably the Farmer's Week exhibit, A.I.E.E. furthers interest in the field among both visitors and members.

This year, as in the past, the American Society of Civil Engineers sponsored an exhibit during Farmers' Week of activities and work done in the civil engineering field.

At the beginning of the 1940-41 school year C. D. Beerup, formerly of Iowa State, was added to the civil engineering staff. In January, Professor C. N. Cade, for 28 years a member of the college faculty and a Lieutenant Colonel in the Coast Artillery Corps, left for active duty in the Army.

The student chapter held its annual banquet in conjunction with the senior society in May with representatives from several surrounding student chapters attending.

In 1925, a group of engineers decided that good fellowship among engineering students would find plenty of outlet if a local honorary for the "users of the slide rule" were organized. The result—Phi Lambda Tau.

In addition to being an engineer, Phi Lambda Tau considers it important that the candidate for membership have what it takes to be an all-round fellow which means extra-curricular activities, a B.M.O.C. rating, and a congenial personality.

To further the "brother" spirit in the group, many informal meetings are scheduled throughout the year. A series of "get-together" lunches are held at which the speaker of the day may be anyone from an engineering frosh with ideas on bridge building to a nationally known constructor.

Each spring Phi Lambda Tau selects its most worthy member as "Outstanding Senior Engineer."

Since the beginning of winter term each year, a Tau Beta Pi key on a Michigan State man has signified an engineering student rating scholastically in the upper fifth of his class. A winter term initiation inducts top-ranking juniors, while the second eighth of the top-ranking seniors and the two highest juniors are initiated in the fall.

During "informal" week prospective Tau Beta Pi members are given a comprehensive examination as well as an all-night engineering assignment.

H. B. Dirks, Dean of the Engineering division, was once editor of "The Bent", the honorary's national publication.

Purpose of Tau Beta Pi is to foster a spirit of liberal culture in engineering schools; to honor those who, by distinguished scholarship and exemplary character or by their attainments as alumni, have conferred honor on their Alma Mater.

La Cofradia was founded for the purpose of furthering Spanish on the campus and was designed for students that wished to go on with Spanish after their classroom work was finished.

The membership of this local honorary is composed of second, third, and fourth year students who have a "B" average or better, and also automatically includes all Spanish majors. The roster at the present time contains the names of thirty active members.

Phi Kappa Phi is an honor society composed of graduate and undergraduate members selected from all departments of study of high grade American universities and colleges. Election to membership is based on scholarship and character. The primary objective of the society is to encourage scholarship and stimulate mental achievement in any field of study.

Members are elected twice each year from the upper ten per cent of the senior class. The Society awards a plaque each year to a Class A, a Class B, a Class C, and a Class D high school whose freshman student at Michigan State College makes the best scholastic record for graduates of high schools of his respective class. Both open and closed meetings are held to promote scholarship.

Recognition of scholastic achievement in the fields of business administration and economics is given M.S.C. students by Sigma Epsilon, local honorary.

Although he can't remember the exact date, faculty advisor Prof. C. S. Dunford, says Sigma Epsilon was organized about ten years ago. Purpose of the honorary is "primarily educational", according to President Tony Rizzardi.

At the regular meetings, which take place every third or fourth week are speakers in every field of business of interest to Sigma Epsilon members. Often the group sponsors talks in conjunction with other interested campus organizations.

Sigma Gamma Upsilon Fraternity is an honorary society comprised of outstanding students in the Hotel Administration Course. A good scholarship record, interest and enthusiasm in the vocation, and a general high standard of personality and character are found among the requirements for membership in this group.

The Fraternity was organized for the purpose of creating more interest in the Hotel Administration Course, for establishing and maintaining more personal contact with hotel men in the business and to set up a goal for students in this work to strive towards while in school.

This group acts as a spark plug for the Hotel Association, sponsors social as well as educational activities and attends the Mid-West Hotel show in Chicago each winter.

Tau Sigma, Liberal Arts and Applied Science scholastic honorary, derives its name from two Greek words, "Timeticas" and "Sophia", which mean "honoring learning". Bearing out this idea, a lamp of learning and the open book of knowledge decorate the organization's pin.

The honorary strives to bring a closer understanding between the arts and sciences, as well as to honor and encourage academic achievement.

A local organization, Tau Sigma accepts new members with a 2.2. average or better each year. Publishing the "aids to efficient study" pamphlet given to freshmen is an important function of this group. Other activities include the awarding of scholarship cups to the freshman Liberal Arts and Applied Science student with top scholastic standing.

In 1913, the Alpha chapter of Omicron Nu, national honorary Home Economics sorority, was founded at Michigan State College. Good scholarship is the first requirement for membership, and new members are chosen twice a year during fall and winter terms. This fall eight seniors were initiated.

A luncheon given in honor of Ellen H. Richards Day, founder of Home Economics, was a high point of fall term. In connection with the luncheon, an exhibit on the life of Ellen H. Richards was displayed in the Home Economics building.

Fall term Omicron Nu placed a bulletin board in the Home Economics building on which is featured the activities of Omicron Nu, an honor roll and a Who's Who in Home Economics.

Homines Legis, local police administration fraternity was organized in 1933 by the first police administration class.

Aim of the organization is to stimulate interest, facilitate cooperation, and promote fellowship among the police administration students of Michigan State.

One of the chief purposes of Homines Legis is to provide professional contacts for its members. A number of members have established valuable contacts, at the regular banquets held by the organization, which have led to future positions.

In winter term of 1941 several members of the Michigan State Police were taken into the organization as honorary members in appreciation for the interest shown by the State Police in past years.

Sophomore police administration students with a 1.2 average are eligible for membership.

The parent organization, founded in 1921, honors scholastic merit in physics and closely related fields. Thirty-nine students joined the local chapter when it was established in 1935, and membership now numbers forty.

Papers are prepared by chapter members and read at the meetings, held every two weeks. Occasionally professional men in applied phsyics and related fields speak at meetings.

(National Veterinary Fraternity)

The Iota chapter of the national organization was installed at Michigan State in 1915 as a professional honorary and has since grown to an active membership of about twenty-five.

This year's activities have involved the usual formal initiation and banquets in the fall and spring terms. For the benefit of senior veterinary students, a surgery project was conducted under faculty supervision to provide actual technique in small animal surgery, not included in the regular college curriculum. In addition, the chapter sponsored a library exhibit to familiarize the public with some of the many phases of veterinary medicine; this was the first of its kind and casual comment termed it "the most interesting library exhibit for some time".

The need of discussion in the field of bacteriology and related arts prompted the students of these fields to form an organization to promote a professional fellowship spirit in bacteriology and furnish standards for discussion groups in both field.

The organization, founded in 1921, was called Sigma Alpha Beta; the initials standing for Society of American Bacteriologists. The society was open to students having a two point average in 6 credits of Bacteriology or 9 credits in Bacteriology and Hygiene. Membership was also extended to faculty members, research workers, and honorary members who were outstanding in either field.

Now after ten years, interest in Bacteriology has become much greater, and the organization has been revised from a local fraternity to a professional society, open to all interested in Bacteriology.

Outstanding achievement of the American Veterinary Medical Association during the 1940-41 school year was the inauguration of the M.S.C. Veterinarian magazine, a long-cherished ambition of the organization. A quarterly trade publication, its purposes are to keep undergraduates in contact with the latest veterinary developments, and to keep graduates in touch with the college.

The Michigan State chapter of the national Association was founded in 1927. Membership this year totals 175. Fifteen meetings are held during the year, at which times prominent professional veterinarians from other parts of the country lecture on subjects related to veterinary science. Chief aims of the group are to create a better relationship between members, and to interest them in the activities of the senior group, the national A.V.M.A.

The organization sponsored a trip to the International Livestock Show in Chicago during the first week of December. Forty members attended the exposition. The Association also sponsored a convention for graduate veterinarians on January 22 and 23. Entertainment was provided by the undergraduate members.

The Association gave a banquet for all members during fall term of this year, and a picnic during the spring. Chief social event of the year, the Medicine Ball, was held during winter term.

Purpose of the R. O. T. C. is to aid in preparing a well-trained and organized Reserve to defend this country in time of need.

College credit is given to the advanced students for this training program which consists of theoretical class work and practical maneuvers. In addition, each cadet officer must attend a summer camp at some government post for six weeks.

Four units of the Reserve Officers Training Corps are represented at this institution; namely, the Cavalry, Coast Artillery, Field Artillery, and Infantry which allows the student a wide range in choosing the branch in which he is to be commissioned. The basic course, which is compulsory at land grant colleges, is composed of lower classmen while the advanced course is elective.

Cavalry students this year were greeted by a completely new staff. Col. F. D. Griffith, head of the Military Department last year, Capt. D. A. Taylor, and Capt. A. D. Dugan were replaced by Maj. M. H. Marcus, Capt. G. Peterson, and Lt. J. B. Clark.

There were 373 students in the cavalry basic course. Among the courses in which they received training were weapons, horsemanship, military sanitation, scouting and patrolling, and cavalry drill. The 61 advance students, with an eye to a commission in the Officers' Reserve Corps and a possible call to duty in the regular Army, studied mechanization, combat principles, care and maintenance of animals, cavalry weapons, security, and administration.

The Cavalry Department also takes charge of putting on the annual R. O. T. C. horseshow, handling riding classes for the faculty and coeds, and training the polo team.

Major Frederick Janz

Second largest unit of the Military Department is the Coast Artillery with an enrollment of 595 students.

Training for the 513 basic students, composed of freshmen and sophomores, comprised the following: military fundamentals, map reading, gunnery, position finding, and materiel for sea-coast and anti-aircraft guns. The 82 advanced students studied gunnery, fire control, tactics, administration, and other subjects necessary to qualify them as officers in the Officers' Reserve Corps upon completion of the course.

As in the other units the teaching staff showed the effects of the mobilization of the Army. Col. G. A. Wildrick and Capt. J. G. Renno were replaced by Capt. J. P. Thompson, Lt. J. R. Hamann, and Lt. J. M. Keyes. All three were called to active duty from the Officers' Reserve Corps. The other C. A. Officer is Col. J. T. Campbell, one of the two officers held over from last year.

As part of the national defense program the Coast Artillery demonstrates two ways of throwing another log on the fire

Military training took on an added emphasis for M.S.C. students this year due to the revived interest in national defense.

The Field Artillery, largest of four military units, had a total enrollment of 739 students of which 626 were in the basic course and 113 in the advance course.

The basic students were schooled in map reading, military sanitation, motor maintenance, and artillery fundamentals. Advance students received an education in leadership, tactics, gunnery, motor transportation, chemical defense, administration, and communications.

There was a complete turnover in the personnel of the Field Artillery. Col. A. J. Zerbee, new head of the Military Department, Maj. E. A. Banning, Lt. E. F. Totton, Lt. A. J. Smith, Lt. N. D. Henderson, and Lt. L. R. Ryle replaced Maj. A. C. Stanford, Maj. M. H. Doty, Capt. C. E. Hixon, and Capt. Barton.

It's a good thing that seventy-five is pointed toward the stables, because Van Valin and Morris are using the field glasses and the B. C. Scope on the Women's Gym.

Right—Degrees of perfection and imperfection in infantry footwork after a year's drill.

This year 438 students completed a year of training in the Infantry section of the Military Department. Of these, 385 were taking the basic training, required of freshmen and sophomores, and 53 were taking the advance course.

Basic students studied organization, map reading, scouting and patrolling, tactics, care and use of the rifle and automatic rifle as well as the use of the light and heavy machine guns and the 60 mm. and 80 mm. mortars. Advance students delved deeper into the basic subjects and learned about military history and law, communications, and intelligence work.

Students took their military training more seriously this year in face of world events, for completion of the four year course in Military Science yields a commission in the Officers' Reserve Corps.

Two of the staff of three were replaced by reserve officers. Lt. G. H. Branch and Lt. W. F. Swartz were ordered to M.S.C. to fill the vacancies left by Col. W. M. Hutson and Col. W. R. Bent. The other officer is Maj. O. L. Davidson.

SCABBARD AND BLADE

Scabbard and Blade, national military fraternity, is the only organization that unites all divisions of the R.O.T.C. into a single body. The Michigan State College chapter was chartered in 1914 as Company K on the First Regiment. Members are chosen from the Juniors officers who have shown outstanding ability in Military Science.

The National Society of Scabbard and Blade was founded at the University of Wisconsin in 1904, and is now represented on 86 campuses throughout the nation. The organization attempts to unite the military departments of American universities and colleges into a closer relationship, to preserve and foster the essential qualities of good and efficient military officers, and to prepare its members to understand and partake in the military affairs of their country.

An outgrowth of the local R. O. T. C. unit in 1933, the local corps is open to all freshmen and sophomore men interested in military science. Enough Junior army cadets are maintained from year to year however to keep the wheels of the organization running smoothly.

Pershing Rifles boasts over 100 members. The local unit sponsors an annual dance, acts as military escorts and service units for any special occasion, and sends a crack pistol team to the intercollegiate Pershing Rifles pistol meet each spring.

Mortar and Ball is a national Coast Artillery honorary which was founded at the University of Minnesota in 1920. The local chapter, Battery E, First Regiment was established in 1930.

Membership in the organization is limited to those men who have proven themselves outstanding in the advance Coast Artillery Corps and whose qualifications are based on achievements in military and college work, leadership, honesty and friendliness.

Mortar and Ball was founded for the purpose of encouraging, developing and preserving the highest ideals of the military profession, promoting American citizenship, and to provide appropriate recognition of military ability among the cadet officers of the advanced R.O.T.C. units.

The Michigan State College Pistol Team ranks today as one of the top teams in the country. The team shoots in the local range and reports by telegraph its results simultaneously with other colleges throughout the nation. Last year, the team won 14 out of 22 such meets. It placed second in the National Field Artillery meet and first in the sixth corps area.

This year the team got off to a good start and their highest achievement occurred when the United States Military Academy bowed to their superior skill.

Founded in 1935 by Major Stanford, elegibility rules are the same as for any other sport, with the exception that each member must be enrolled in the R.O.T.C.

RIFLE TEAM

While not as sensational as the Spartan '39-40 corps area champions, the Michigan State College Rifle team had a considerably better than average year. The team, coached by Lt. Swartz of the Infantry and his assistant Sergeant Field, won 38 of their 63 inter-collegiate matches. Dropping to 4th place in the 6th corp area matches, which State won last year, they came back with an eleventh place in the National Randolph Hearst matches to close the season.

Leaving the ranks this year are Captains Ralph Toles and Clyde Button. However, Sophomore ace Bill Salton and Freshman Bob Engstron are expected to form the nucleus for a record breaking '41-'42 team.

Features-of-the-year were the introduction of coeds as candidates for squad membership and the annual "shellacking" handed out to our neighbors at Ann Arbor.

The 4-H club adopted its constitution in 1937 thus firmly establishing on the Michigan State campus an organization designed to aid every agricultural student. Since the organization got under way, the membership has been steadily increasing until at the present time it has a membership of more than forty rural students.

The original purposes of the organization was to keep 4-H club members together after they left their local groups, and to develop leadership among the members. The meetings are held bi-monthly in Agriculture Hall at which time rural youth problems are discussed. It is not necessary for a member to have belonged to a 4-H club before attending this school. The major prerequisite for membership is sincere interest.

Matrix, junior and senior women's journalism honorary, attempted to further the cause of journalism this year by promoting a series of four radio programs on "Women in Journalism" and also promoting a high school publications conference.

In its third year, Matrix has 17 members who have done outstanding work on one of the three campus publications. The eligibility for membership requires a two point average in journalism subjects and a one point five all-college average. These membership requirements coincide with those of Theta Sigma Phi, national women's journalism honorary, with whom Matrix hopes to affiliate soon.

The organization aims to promote professional and social interests among women journalists as well as to further the cause of journalism in general and to give service to the college.

"A responsible job for every member", was the aim of the Michigan State College Hotel Association this year. Deciding that a more efficient, more democratic set-up was in order for the organization, the officers initiated the idea that committeemen should be selected from the four class divisions to serve on the Council.

Plans for the year were directed toward training younger members of the organization for executive positions in the association and for their work after college. An alumni committee was formed to keep a revolving map listing residences and activities of alumni through the years. For the first time representatives were sent to the January conference of the Michigan Hotel association in Battle Creek.

In May the organization sponsored an open house for Michigan Hotel men with Franklin Moore, president of the American Hotel association as guest speaker.

PI ALPHA

The Sociology Club is no more. We now have Pi Alpha whose purpose, as before, is to provide a medium for the expression of student opinion, but who now has stiffened the requirements for membership. Sociology students, whether undergrads or grads, must be recommended by two Pi Alpha members for membership according to the new constitution.

The first meeting in the fall is a social gathering and from then on student interest in sociology is inspired by movies, discussion groups, engaged speakers, and other activities of interest to the group. Parts of the movie "Four Daughters" was shown at one meeting followed by a discussion among the members from the sociological point of view.

Scalp and Blade is a national fraternity composed of college students living in the vicinity of Buffalo, New York. Since being founded on this campus less than a year ago, the chapter has fostered the orientation of the transfer of freshmen students from western New York.

A unique activity of Scalp and Blade is an annual "college carnival" some week-end Spring term. This brings outstanding Buffalo high school students to State's campus with the idea that they will attend here after graduation. M.S.C. Buffalo alumni cooperate in making the caravan possible.

The value of the organization is the wide variety of contacts it helps to establish.

Students interested in creative, varied, democratic, and inexpensive social activities are welcomed as members of the Student Club which meets every Friday evening in the People's Church. Every member is on his own, and free to suggest and partake in the evening's special attraction.

The underlying principle of the club which was founded in 1935 is democratic management of the organization. Any student who agrees with this principle may take part in the dances, games, swimming parties and other social affairs sponsored by the group. Friday evening parties are planned in accordance with the season as well as to cater to individual interests.

Student Club is the only organization of its kind in the United States and has gained nation-wide acclaim through articles in leading magazines. Group government is handled by a cabinet of twelve students assisted by a faculty advisor and two church directors.

Students from Grange communities are able to continue their association with the lodge while at college through the Student Grange, established in 1928. Students in the Agricultural and Home Economics divisions are in the majority of the Grange's membership. However such notables as Dean E. L. Anthony, R. S. Tenney, and John A. Hannah have been initiated into membership.

Campus activities include the presentation of a play and the maintainence of a cafeteria during Farmers Week. Fifteen to twenty-five members of the group are on the Degree Teams which travel throughout the state initiating members. However, they still have time to hold bi-monthly meetings, one social and one a business meeting of the fourth Order of the Grange.

Typical of all Hollywood opening nights which include fanfare and finger-like searchlights probing the night for new stars to dazzle the "movie-dom" horizon, the 1940 Water Carnival, with Cinerama as its theme, embarked on a journey to depict the progress motion pictures have made and to prove how vital is the part they play in the lives of Americans. Written by Joe Ruhe, the theme was as modern as tomorrow, and the king and queen of the carnival, Willie Scales and Jean Fairbanks, wielded their scepters over a pageant as novel and as American as the American college co-ed's hair-do.

Preceding the panorama of the "flickers", were found the remnants of the original Water Carnival. Before the glamor and splendor of floats and pageantry were bred into the carnival it was a series of competitive events almost entirely for the senior class including swimming events, log birling, canoe tilting, and coed canoe loading.

The work of the Spartan Y.M.C.A. can best be described in its purpose, as stated in the organization's constitution: "the Y.M.C.A. of Michigan State College is a fellowship of students and faculty men who are attracted by the teachings of Jesus. These men join together for the purpose of stimulating through their personal living and through a dynamic fellowship, a Christian living which is intellectually mature, emotionally satisfying and socially adequate for the day in which we live and the future which we face."

Membership in the Association is open to any man on campus, the only requirement being that he take a pledge to support the purpose of the organization.

Activities of the Association for this year included a Freshman Week Program, campus and community service projects, forums and lectures on religion, faculty fireside programs, sponsorship with the Y. W. C. A. of a State-wide Student Christian Conference, and observation trips to understand social conditions first hand in our industrial urban areas.

It welcomes all girls on campus into its membership, and it also engages in many commendable activities. The girls have made Y. This year the Christian Science organization held meetings, patterned after the church service, every Wednesday evening in the Music Building. The group again sponsored two authorized Christian Science lecturers to speak to college students, as it has done since 1935. Another highlight of this year's program was the fall get-together tea for alumni and new members.

To serve Christian Science students and faculty and to make the religion available to those who are interested is the purpose of the Christian Science organization. It was founded on this campus in 1935 as a branch of the Mother church, The First Church of Christ Scientist, Boston.

Spartan Christian Fellowship continually works toward its main objective—to present Christ to the campus. Besides weekly meetings, members have two daily prayer meetings and three Bible study gatherings each term.

No member restrictions are made by the group. Anyone interested in the purpose and the work being done toward this purpose is welcomed as a member.

Each term a new leader is selected who helps carry on meetings and Bible studies. Guest speakers are also presented frequently at meetings.

With eight hundred actual members and one hundred forty "actives" Newman club is the largest religious organization on campus. All Catholic students are members. The local club is a branch of the International Newman Federation and was organized here in 1934. It was founded for the purpose of advancing religious social, and educational contacts among students.

The forestry cabin is the usual setting for Newman club parties; the winter term semi-formal was held in the Little Theater. Once each month the club holds a business meeting. All other gatherings are either for the discussion of religious subjects or for entertainment.

The official headquarters of the Newman club is the rectory on Abbott road, where Father Winters, club chaplain, officiates.

Organized to develop and increase religion and promote social activities for Jewish students of Michigan State College is Hillel Extension, which was founded in 1939. Brandeis Forum was the original name when the group was organized in 1937.

With a membership of over 75, bi-monthly meetings are held at which outside speakers are brought in to speak to the group on current events of interest to them. A regional conclave was held in March with representatives of Hillel groups from the University of Michigan and Michigan State Normal College participating.

Hillel Extension is a member of the Inter-faith council and the advisor for the group is Rabbi Morton A. Applebaum.

Outstanding Athletes 1940-1941

Merle and Burl Jennings, those 19-year old personality laden twins of a Tulsa, Okla. fireman have reached the top of the ladder. And it's not their pop's fire ladder, either.

It's the topmost spot in national intercollegiate wrestling circles. Last March the two boys brought Michigan State into the national limelight by winning two collegiate titles at Bethlehem, Pa.

Michigan State has captured national collegiate cross country championships, placed high in the country's football rankings and generally stood out in intercollegiate competition. But never before have two individuals brought such laurels as these to the Winding Cedar.

Merle defeated Capt. Calfin Melhorn of Oklahoma A & M, 9-5, on points in the 121 pound battle, while Brother Burl trounced Mike Slepekcy of Kent State, 16-6, for the 128-pound crown. The twins are only sophomores.

Such an oddity as twins winning these titles created nationwide interest. Shortly after their brilliant victories the Jennings boys went to New York City to demonstrate their skill and technique before Life Magazine cameramen.

For reaching the top rung of the ladder, the Wolverine selects Merle and Burl Jennings as the outstanding Michigan State athletic performers for 1940-41.

RALPH YOUNG

bust Ralph Young joined M.S.C. faculty as Professor of cal Education, Athletic Director, and Head Coach in 3. Upon college expansion, Young devoted coaching s to track exclusively and his charges obtained recognition ghout the country. From his 49 varsity teams, twenty- athletes were All-American, four made the U. S. pics, and three tied world records. He is responsible e first National Collegiate Cross Country run. Under fficient administration, Macklin Stadium has been built subsequently enlarged, a four-year physical education e created, a track and field second to none established, enison Field House, his greatest achievement, completed.

ASSISTANT DIRECTOR

LYMAN FRIMODIG

Lyman L. Frimodig, the only man in the school's history to carry off ten athletic letters, graduated from State in 1917. Joining the Army for the war, they gave him the title of second "louie". But State has done the Army five better, because "Frim" now holds the titles of assistant director of athletics, associate professor of physical education, director of intramural activities, frosh baseball coach, and he recently served five years as Mayor of East Lansing. Frimodig works in close collaboration with Ralph Young and is a genial, familiar figure to all State students.

Founded in 1915 to promote a high standard of athletics and fellowship among varsity men, the Varsity club boasts an active membership of 74 letter-men and the list of traditional events it sponsors is nearly as long as its membership list.

Sponsor of the Frosh-Soph brawl each October, the club rounds out its activities with Winter carnival assistance in February, and goes formal for its Varsity ball, which has been shifted from winter to spring term.

The S-men are also responsible for the bestowing of "pots" on the incoming freshmen, and enforcement of the no-smoking-on-campus tradition.

A winter term scholarship is given by the club each year to its senior member having the highest all-school average, and possessing at least two major letters.

This year the scholarship was awarded to trackman Starr Keesler.

The latest addition to Varsity club facilities is a complete club room located in Jenison fieldhouse, furnished and equipped by club funds.

COACH BACHMAN

It is striking to note that Charlie Bachman's career at Michigan State surpasses that of any other school where he has labored. Following the World War, Bachman became head coach of Northwestern University where he was hailed as the "boy coaching wonder" of the Big Ten. He was 24 years of age at that time and has without interruption coached a major college team since that time.

After one year at Evanston he resigned to become head coach at Kansas State College, remained there for eight years, then moved to the University of Florida where he coached for five years and eventually came to Michigan State in 1933. Since at State his record has been 45 wins, 19 losses, and 6 ties.

ASSISTANT COACHES

G. Dahlgren, J. Budinski, A. Kircher, C. Bachman, T. King, D. Rossi, J. Holsinger.

GORDON DAHLGREN
Assistant Line Coach

"Jake" as he is most popularly called, has served three years on the football staff. He is a former Spartan football star, graduating in 1936 and spending one year as an assistant coach at Lansing Eastern before returning to the State stronghold. Dahlgren played both backfield and line position under Bachman and was a running mate of All-American Sid Wagner in 1935-36.

JOE HOLSINGER
Backfield Coach

Joe Holsinger is the pride and protege of Coach Charley Bachman. The 1940 football season was Joe's second at Michigan State under Bachman, but he has served under him elsewhere. For three years at Kansas State, Holsinger was Bachman's star left halfback and he later was his assistant at the University of Florida. Besides knowing his "stuff" in football and basketball Holsinger can also shake a mean golf club.

AL KIRCHER
Assistant Line Coach

Al Kircher graduated from State in 1934 having received letters in three of the major sports. He was the batting champion of the 1934 baseball team. Before coming back to State in 1939 Al coached at Trout Creek, Michigan and also at Marquette High School.

DON ROSSI
Assistant Backfield Coach

Don Rossi, quarterback of the 1940 team, returned this fall as an assistant coach. Don had charge of the B team which defeated the freshman squad for the first time in four years. While a student Don was on the boxing team and received the first major letter to be given by the athletic department. This June Don left for the Army Air Corps.

TOM KING
End Coach

Tom King, the silver-haired eagle of the Spartan coaching staff, was brought to Michigan State in 1933 by Coach Charley Bachman. He was a former teammate of Bachman at Notre Dame where he played end on the football team and also participated in basketball and track. He was formerly coach at high schools in Louisville and Cincinnati where his teams enjoyed unusual success. Immediately before joining the Michigan State staff he was head coach at University of Louisville.

SENIORS

Graduation did not cut such a deep numerical swath into the ranks of Michigan State's football squad in 1940, as only seven members graduated. But functionally the loss was great for they all performed a vital function on the team. Five of those lost were linemen, while the others were backfield men. Lost to the Spartan forward wall were Bruce Blackburn and Stan McRae, ends. Stan plays for the Washington professionals next year. Paul Griffeth and Ed Abdo, guards; and Bill Batchelor, center. In the backfield, it was a pair of fullbacks, Jack Amon and Paul Derrickson.

CO-CAPTAINS

In recent years game captains have been appointed before each contest. However, at the end of each season, squad members group together and select an honorary captain. This year the boys went one better and elected co-captains. They were Paul Griffeth, mainstay at guard for three years, and Jack Amon senior fullback from Grand Rapids. Griffeth, who hailed from Sturgis, won his post as a sophomore and was at all times a steadying effect on the team. Amon, who was awarded a gold watch for being the most valuable senior, made a masterful climb in his last two years to become the most consistent member of State's backfield.

MICHIGAN 21 MICHIGAN STATE 14

The Spartan-Wolverine gridiron tussle of 1940 was typical of other years, a hard fought battle from start to finish. But when it was all over, the Spartans had dropped their third straight contest to the mighty Wolverines. Once again it was All-American Tom Harmon who proved to be the difference between victory and defeat for Michigan. Harmon scored all 21 points for the Wolverines and was a terror on offense for 60 minutes.

With Michigan leading, 14-0, the Spartans get back into the running when Wyman Davis connected with a long pass to diminutive Walter Pawlowski. Michigan rolled up another seven points in the third quarter before Michigan State took control in the final period. After passing up one scoring chance, the Spartans cashed in on another long pass, this time from Sophomore Dick Kieppe to Pawlowski, with little more than a minute to play. This was the end of a hard day's work for the fighting Spartans.

TEMPLE 21 STATE 19

This contest provided Michigan State's most unexpected defeat of the year. Jimmy Powers grabbed the kick-off and ran 105-yards for Temple's first touchdown. Andy Tomasic's running and passing completely baffled the Spartans to the extent of two more touchdowns. The score was 21-0 at half time. But then came the awakening. Schelb connected for touchdown passes to Lew Smiley and Bob Friedlund in the third quarter, and Davis hit the spot with Walter Ball on the receiving end. Michigan State's great comeback, however, was halted by final whistle.

SANTA CLARA 0 STATE 0

Michigan State-Santa Clara games have always been thrilling contests, and although this one was a scoreless tie, it also had its merits. Probably the best punting performance seen at Mackin Field was put on by Jimmy Johnson, Bronco halfback. But the feature of this game was the strong line play by both teams. Never have two forward walls been seen to check, block and tackle as hard as these two. For a change the linemen were in the spotlight.

KANSAS STATE 0 STATE 32

As it usually occurs each year, Michigan State had its field day on the gridiron. This year it was at the expense of Kansas State, a team which hadn't been played since 1933. The Spartans piled up touchdowns in every quarter against the beleaguered Kansas Jay-hawker's. Forty-four Spartans saw action in this game.

INDIANA 20 STATE 0

Although the actual running story of this game would not read as badly as the score indicates, this defeat was the worst sustained by a Bachman coached team at Michigan State. Never before had the Spartans been trimmed by more than two touchdowns. This however, was State's off day, and Hurlin' Hal Hursh, Indianas' passing star, took the opportunity to spark his teammates to victory.

Batch is the "center" of attention by running back West Virginia's pass.

PURDUE 7, MICHIGAN STATE 20

This contest provided Michigan State gridders with their greatest triumph of the season. For this game they were primed to the highest pitch reached during the season. From the outset the Spartan eleven dominated Purdue, and by half time it led, 13-0. Michigan State scored early in the first quarter on a pass from Wyman Davis to Walt Pawlowski. Shortly after the start of the next period, Chuck Carey, sophomore playing in his first college game, skirted left end for 13-yards and a touchdown. In the third quarter it was Lew Smiley grabbing another touchdown pass to culminate the Spartan scoring. Purdue made a final desperate bid in the fourth quarter and finally scored its lone touchdown when big, bone-crushing John Petty crashed over from the 2-yard line on fourth down. The score, 20-7, was the same by which Purdue trimmed Michigan State the previous year.

MARQUETTE 7 STATE 6

If ever a team lost a hard luck contest, this was it. Although they completely outplayed the Hilltoppers, Michigan State just didn't get the breaks. After a scoreless first half, Wyman Davis put Michigan State in front when he dashed 79-yards for a touchdown. Early in the second quarter, a touchdown was called back after Davis skirted end for 78 yards. Then late in the fourth quarter came the decisive break for Marquette. Just when Michigan State was getting started on another touchdown drive, Ray Apolskis, Marquette center, intercepted a pass and ran 60-yards for a touchdown. Bob Kemnitz then added the extra point that provided the margin of victory.

WEST VIRGINIA 0 STATE 17

The Spartans final game of the season was one in which they demonstrated the experience gained from a none too successful season. Up against one of the hardest blocking and tackling teams in the nation, Michigan State outfought its opponent from start to finish. The Spartan running machine which had failed to click during the majority of the season, functioned with perfection as Jack Amon and Ed Ripmaster tallied touchdowns in this game. Bob Sherman added a three-pointer with a 16-yard field goal.

FRESHMAN FOOTBALL

In their last year with outside competition the frosh walloped Central State, 20-0 as Morgan Gingrass scored two touchdowns and Bill Hanley scored one. Later in the season they trounced Western State, 14-0 with Elbert Stark passing 12-yards to Roy Fraleigh for one touchdown and Hugh Davis running 35-yards for the other. The frosh, however, met their first defeat in two years at the hands of Michigan State Reserves. Sparked by young Jimmy Pingel and Bill Lynn, the reserves took a 7-0 decision.

MOST VALUABLE PLAYER AWARD

Jack Amon — Governor Dickinson

Jack Amon is the fourth backfield man in ten years to win the Most Valuable Player Award. Jack now carries a new engraved watch which was presented to him by Governor Dickinson because Jack's fellow senior letterman elected him to have this honor. It was the steady plugging, unyielding courage, and intensive determination that won him this distinctive honor.

COACH VAN ALSTYNE

Last season "Van" inaugurated the fast break, but this season he changed style and used a "set shot" offense. The change was as effective this vear as last, because Ben's squad again upset some of the countries best basketball quintets. Ben arrived at State in 1926 and since that time has acquired the reputation of having a formidable team year after year.

CAGE HIGHLIGHTS

They said it could never be done, but Michigan State's basketball players, those hardy entrepreneurs of thrills, double crossed the second-guessers at every turn in 1940-41. When the smoke had cleared, the Spartans not only had done the impossible by registering a winning season, but owned the best cage record compiled—with one exception—in the last five years here.

State's squad, meeting the toughest list of opponents that a Spartan cage aggregation had faced since Ben VanAlstyne took over the coaching reins in 1926, clicked off 11 brilliant victories and accepted six defeats. The only mark that rivalled State's 1941 record since the 1935 quintet won 14 and lost four was the 14-and-six mark chalked up in 1940.

MORE ABOUT THE

Only the fact that the season was going to be comparatively short served as appeasement for the Spartans as they gloomily launched the campaign in December. Solemn Ben was even more solemn than usual as he woefully conceded his cagers little chance on their suicide program and season tickets gathered dust in the chambers of assistant athletic director L. L. Frimodig.

State opened its action with an unimpressive victory over Kalamazoo College and from then on things began to happen. First of all the Spartans accepted the worst licking a Van Alstyne-coached team had ever suffered at State by losing to Michigan, 42-14. "Lousy", said usually-rabid State partisans and prepared to become badminton fans for the rest of the winter.

But the Spartans, who never cared much what was said about them as long as they had a chance to play the game, pulled the first surprise and gave hint of what was to come by turning back Ohio State, then leader of the Western Conference, here. Iowa followed the Buckeyes and by spilling State became the only team on the Spartans' schedule that didn't lose to them. The lads collected at least a split with every other team.

After beating Creighton Dec. 31 to even a two-game series the Spartans went through their longest and most sensational streak of the season which included six straight triumphs. State downed the Bluejays, Long Island University's famous Blackbirds in Madison Square Garden, New York City, Temple in Philadelphia and Marquette, Temple, and West Virginia in East Lansing to make it an even half dozen. The string was finally snapped, 46-39, by Notre Dame in South Bend.

SURPRISING SPARTANS

That ended State's attempt at a new record but it didn't end the thrills. For the Spartans whipped University of Michigan, 35-32, in Jenison fieldhouse for the first triumph in six games over a Wolverine quintet and barely missed being the first team to ever whip L.I.U. twice in one season when the Blackbirds eked out a 23-22 win here. The season ended with the most sensational battle of them all when State beat Notre Dame, 44-35, for the first setback of the Irish cage foe since 1930.

All in all it was the greatest hell-for-leather and what's-going-to-happen next season ever witnessed by Spartan fans. Max Hindman, the slim senior from Gary, Ind., led the parade and when his hands were too full it was Bob Phillips, the other Gary Gang senior, who picked up the lead. Most sensational of the Spartans was North Webster's Jolting Joe Gerard and the biggest discovery was Bill Burk of Hammond, Ind. Burk broke into the lineup against Creighton and from then on State began winning. Frank Mekules, big Detroit junior, completed the regular picture while Carl Petroski, Dudley Jones, Bob Morris, another senior, and Pete Basich were also on the firing line. Mel Peterson, the blond Muskegon guard, suffered an injured knee and saw all his action at the stort and in the home stretch.

DIAMOND NOTES

Battered by weaker teams, sleet, snow, rain, injuries, and an epidemic of mumps, Michigan State's 1940 baseball team nevertheless emerged with a record which stamped it as one of the middle west's better squads.

Ranging the country from Georgia to Iowa, the Spartans hung up a mark of 12 victories, eight defeats, and two ties for their season's work. Had it not been for three straight setbacks at the end of the campaign the State nine might have hung up pretty nearly the best won-and-lost mark registered here since 1929.

However, those last three defeats, one to powerful little Illinois Wesleyan and the other two to Ohio State, smeared what promised to be a beautiful Michigan State record.

The ole hit and run play

With a backdrop of snow all along the way, the Spartans fell short by one run of coming through an undefeated southern tour. State beat Georgia, 3 to 2, Presbyterian, 11 to 5, and U. of South Carolina, 14 to 12, but was tied by Clemson, 3-3, in a shortened seven inning engagement, and fell before Georgia, 5-4, in 11 innings for its only setback of the trip.

Once back on this side of the Mason-Dixon line the Spartans' troubles began in earnest. Interned with mumps were Paul Stark and Norm Duncan. Then it rained. And underneath recurring downpours the State nine tied Wisconsin, 6-6, in nine innings, beat the Badgers, 7-6.

Western State, undoubtedly the toughest foe State faced all season and sporting two great pitchers in Harry Bailey and Frank Overmire, handed the Spartans a record 19-6 beating but in a return engagement at Kalamazoo Coach John Kobs' crew was able to eke out a 7-5 decision.

State's baseball affairs with Michigan were pretty much of a turnabout business. The Spartans beat the Wolverines, 5-4, at Ann Arbor in the first encounter for the only State victory of the year over a Michigan team while the two teams' return meeting here saw the Wolves win, 5-4.

The end of a long one

As for the rest of the season, Pitcher Frank Mekules and State beat Notre Dame twice, 2-1, and 4-2, Iowa trounced the Spartans twice in Iowa City, 8-4 and 4-0, State turned back Toledo, 8-3, pushed over Michigan Normal, 7-1, and blasted Hillsdale twice, 17-4. The curtain came down as Illinois Wesleyan stopped a relaxed State nine, 10-8, and Ohio State earned 4-3, and 7-3 victories.

No 1 pitcher of the year for State turned out to be Mekules, the Detroit sophomore, who wound up with five triumphs and two setbacks. Senior George Monroe ran into his share of tough luck and finished with three wins and three losses plus one tie. Paul Derrickson won one, lost two, and tied one, Bob Hall won two and lost one, and Don Fleischmann earned a single victory.

Norm Duncan, Mayville, Mich. shortstop, led State hitters for the second straight year. Duncan pounded out 35 hits in 88 times at bat for a .398 mark. Alternate first baseman Bob Kamrath followed him with 13 hits in 37 for .351. Duncan also led in total bases, 42, and tied with Stark for stolen bases, seven.

Willie Davis cracked out six two-base hits to lead in that department while Casey Klewicki connected for three triples. Bill Morrison scored most runs, 21, while Wy Davis, Stark, Leo Wolkowicz, Hall, Klewicki, and George Owen each collected one home run.

TRACK

One slip in Beal Gardens cost the 1941 track and field squad the services of All-American Captain Walter Arrington the greater part of the season. Walt hurdled a "Detour" sign and when he landed his foot rolled in a depression next to a flower bed. He was laid up for weeks with a sprained ankle. This accident was a dismal welcome to Karl Schlademan, veteran of Pacific Coast wars, who took over the head coaching baton held by Athletic Director Ralph H. Young for twenty three years. The loudest thing visually in the track division this year was King Karl's blazing red jacket. The loudest thing vocally was the shouts of Bub Amiss, groundkeeper, when the boys dug up his super-conditioned cinder track.

COACH SCHLADEMAN

This year the track team, besides acquiring a field house in which to practice, obtained the great coaching ability of Karl A. Schlademan. Karl's career started upon his graduation from DePauw University when he began tutoring at the University of Kansas. While there he earned the name of "father" of the Kansas Relays. Karl arrived here from Pullman, Wash. where he was head coach of the Washington State track team.

TRACK TALK

The individual brilliance of two Spartan thinclads, Walter Arrington, ace broad and high jumper, and Roy Fehr, middle-distance star, was all that kept Michigan State from dropping entirely out of the 1940 track picture in which Coach Ralph H. Young's charges managed to make only one good performance. That performance was in the State Intercollegiate when the Spartans finished two and one-half points behind Michigan Normal for second place. The rest of the season's schedule amounted to so much mechanical participation with the exception of the work on the afore-mentioned duo.

Sharing a minor portion of the spotlight was another distance man, Dick Frey, who closed his athletic career at State winning the two mile in each of the three meets in which he ran the event.

Walt Arrington, the Captain of the track squad, was entered in eleven track meets and scored points in every one against the best competition in the country. His crowning achievement came in the Illinois Relays at Urbana, Ill., where he out-scored a hot field to win the All-Round Crown.

Roy Fehr, running in thirteen meets, placed not lower than third, whether in competition with a relay team or running alone. By taking the lead and maintaining it to the end on the mucky University of Minnesota track to win the two mile event of the N.C.A.A. Roy was awarded a position on the 1940 All-American Track Team.

One of the "musts" at every Michigan State college athletic event is the varsity cheerleaders. This year's squad, headed by Louis Necci and including two of last year's All-Americans, Sam Yeiter and Bud Fontana proved no exception.

Of many candidates who answered Head Cheerleader Louis Necci's call for fall term tryouts, ten handpicked men were selected to compose the team.

The squad practiced three nights a week during fall term to perfect the half-time acts for all the home football games, because the half-time skit has become a standby at Michigan State college. The ideas, originated by the members themselves, are worked out during the week and presented in final form Saturday afternoon.

State's cheerleaders have aided MSC in achieving another successful season on the sports front, and have done their part to put Michigan State college on the sports map.

NATIONAL COLLEGIATE CROSS COUNTRY

Spartan excellence in cross country for the past decade has been rewarded by having the four mile Red Cedar hill and 'dale course as the site of the National Collegiate Championships. In 1940 however, Lauren P. Brown's galloperers were toppled from their throne and State's perennial rival, Indiana University, won the meet with 91 points.

Michigan Normal's rising Hurons were second with 68 points, Rhode Island State's I. C. 4-A champions grabbed third with 91 points, while Michigan State fell fourth with 102 points. Following in order were Notre Dame, Ohio State, Drake, Oberlin, Alfred and Earlham.

Topping the 91 star-studded field, was Gilbert Dodds, from Ashland who covered the frozen terrain in the record time of 20:31.2.

Al Mangan led the Spartan brigade in 22nd place, with sophomore Bill Scott a step behind. Courageous Frank Conforti of Notre Dame ran one-half of the grind with a bare foot, and plucky Marion Cole, colored strider from Illinois Normal struggled almost to the finish after covering nearly the entire course with a cracked ankle.

NATIONAL COLLEGIATE SWIMMING

If you're looking for the o. 1 collegiate swimming st in the nation, brother, n't look any farther. For ring this year, Michigan ate staged the most suc- ssful National Collegiate vimming Meet in the ghteen years that it has een held.

State's new regulation ol with all of the extras, ch as underwater lighting, bmarine windows, mod- n scum gutters and the test in diving boards, at- acted 41 colleges repre- nted by 176 individuals, e largest entry in history.

From the East—Yale, Princeton, Rutgers, and others; from the West—Stanford, University o Washington and Occidental, swimmers and coaches went away from the meet singing the praises of Michigan State and its ultra modern athletic plant.

And as for the actual championship honors—they didn't go far. The team title was captured by Matt Mann's champion Michigan Wolverines for the eighth straight year with 61 points. Yale, in second place with 58, provided competition.

SPORTS

Although varsity sports capture the attention and concern of all students and Spartan followers throughout the year, State's intramural athletic program comes in for its share of extra curricular glory.

With more than 1,200 men and women students participating during the 1940-41 school year, campus competition struck a new high this year. Participation in seventeen various sports featured the intramural athletic card. Touch football, basketball, track, cross country, bowling, handball, table tennis, baseball, swimming, boxing, wrestling, fencing, softball, tennis, golf, badminton and volleyball called more than one fifth of the total student body into competition.

Fraternity, dormitory, independant and individual league tournaments featured the nine month program. Numeral jackets, trophies and medals were given to winners and semi-finalists in each sport.

A group of Independant men, most of them former Lansing high school athletes, walked away with the touch football title. Playing under the very appropriate name of "Tom Harmon Independents" the champions triumphed over some 43 teams to clinch State's finest intramural trophy. The highly publicized DZV organization, a group of varsity letters winner who banded together for a season of basketball, lived up to advance expectations and captured the intramural basketball title. Sigma Nu won the All-Fraternity swimming title and topped all fraternity bowling contestants while Glen Sheathelm and James McGowan outlasted some 32 other contestants for the handball championship.

Following are the winners and weight classes of the All-College boxing tournament: Frank Deaner, 120; Robert Finch, 127; James Clark, 135; Edward Wood, 145; William Wissman, 155; Allen Lockman, 165; Charles Corey, 175; John Kiljan, heavyweight.

Winners of the All - College wrestling tourney and their weight classes were: Herbert Thompson, 121; Merle Jennings, 126; Burl Jennings, 136; John Maxwell, 145; Robert Jacobs, 155; Homer Higbe, 165; John Spalink, 175; Michael Dendrinos, heavyweight.

With women students taking over complete possession of the gymnasium, women's athletics came into its own during the 1940-41 season as 500 students competed in the various sports offered outside of the regular department. The multitude of sports offered during fall term included hockey, fencing, soccer, roller skating, hiking and bicycling.

Volleyball highlighted the intramural competition as fifteen organizations entered the tournament. The Kappa Kappa Gamma aggregation, copped the championship as Betty Nonenpreger and Ann Backstrom starred.

Hockey, the second most popular fall term sport held its usual favor. Acquisition of new equipment and more playing room were greatly responsible for the large turn out.

Under the leadership of Rachael Friedlund and Joyce Mallman, special instruction in fencing was offered to women students as a part of the fencing sports program.

Soccer was introduced into women sports for the first time under the management of Eleanor Sims. Games were held regularly.

Another highlight of the fall season was W.A.A. hiking. An attendance of over thirty students came out each time for the long hike which was followed by the consuming of weenies, marshmallows and cocoa.

Women students interested in swimming went out for the senior life saving course offered by Green Splash. Several mixed splash parties were also held. Fall term activities were concluded by a dinner held at Hunts, at which new members were initiated and awards, numerals and plaques were presented.

SPORTS

Basketball, bowling, and swimming made strong bids for leadership in winter term competition.

The undefeated Et Ceteras, captained by Shirley Dodge, took first place in the basketball tournament over a fighting Wild Cat team. Loretta Urban of Team I set up a new high scoring record of 21 points for a single game.

Sigma Kappa emerged on top of the 16 other teams entered in the intramural bowling tournament conducted under the management of Lorrain Voisinet.

Once again the Independents took the intramural swimming championship. Dorothy Campbell, Helen Hayes and Lois Newman all put in stellar performances to outpoint the second place Kappa Kappa Gamma team. Joan Borgman of the Kappa's set a new record for the 30 yard Breast stroke.

New equipment and more time in which to practice, made the conditions almost ideal for winter term badminton.

In an inter-college fencing meet, Rachael Friedlund and her followers, successfully downed an Olivet aggregation, taking 12 out of 18 contests.

Riflery was also offered to women students under the supervision of Lt. Swartz. In the final contests the coeds tallied up a record of 99.9% bullseyes.

"Fore! Watch out! and Yer out!" were the exclamations heard during spring term as golf, archery and softball took place.

Plans for over-night hikes and the spring term banquet concluded the activities of M.S.C. women in sports.

The Women's Athletic Association sponsors all intramural and extracurricular sports for women. Its membership is open to any girl on campus who earns one-hundred points for participation in sports. Points are awarded for participation rather than skill. Besides being eligible to join the organization one-hundred points also gives the girl her numerals. Other awards are the small S for 500 points, the large S for 1000 points, and the opportunity to sign the Honor Roll when 1500 points have been earned. Each sport has a sport manager on the board, and she is responsible for the program of that activity. The intramural chairman is elected by the sports managers of the various dormitories and sororities and is their representative on the board. Placques are given to the group placing first in each intramural sport, and a trophy is given to the group placing first in total points at the end of the year. W. A. A. is a member of the Athletic Federation of College Women, national organization.

GREEN SPLASH

Green Splash, women's swimming organization, celebrated its first year in sole possession of its own pool with a bigger and better program than ever. Most important event was the winter term pageant, "Fiesta de Aqua", under the chairmanship of Helen Hayes. Other projects were the annual senior life saving course and several splash parties throughout the year as well as the sponsoring of open swims.

Green Splash was organized in 1927 to promote an interest in swimming among the women on the Michigan State campus. Members are selected from those women who have successfully completed the senior life saving course and were members of their class swimming teams in the class meets held winter term. Prospective members must also have at least a "C" average and the unanimous acceptance of the club members. New members are tapped by the club spring term and then become eligible to wear the green bathing suits that distinguished members from other campus mermaids.

INTERFRATERNITY

Beginning with a smoker for all new men students in the fall and climaxing the year's activities with the Fifth Annual National Convocation in the Spring, I. F. C. laid strongest stress on the first part of its name, "Inter". All its activities aimed at, and succeeded in, bringing about a better feeling and working agreement between the Greek letter groups, and between these groups and the faculty and administration.

The Council won national recognition for its participation in the Regional Conference at Ohio State and for its splendidly developed Pledge Trainer's School which was set up to aid pledge masters in giving instruction on the values, ideals and justifications of their individual groups.

Thirty-four men, a senior and junior from each house, comprise the Council, which is the coordination body for all interfraternity relationships. Recognition is given throughout the year to those houses that excel in scholarship, sports, singing, home-coming decorations, and other achievements.

PANHELLENIC

The past year has been a very busy one for the nhellenic Council. For the first time, the council llected a registration fee from those non-sorority omen who wished to be considered for sorority embership. Another change adopted to improve e system of selection was the elimination of open as, and prospective members were admitted to e houses only upon presentation of an invitation hich they received with the payment of the gistration fee.

Many hopeful suggestions were obtained at the ational Panhellenic Congress Regional Conference last fall, and as a result, the council began a series of program meetings for all sorority women.

The council has carried on its usual social program with a few innovations. The Annual Panhellenic Banquet and the Interfraternity-Panhellenic Ball were two of its successes. In addition to these, the council sponsored a tea given by sorority pledges for the fraternity pledges, the usual spring Style Show, in which fraternity men also modeled this year, the Annual Panhellenic Sing, and the Interfraternity-Panhellenic Coffee Hour.

Each year it seems that we must watch a group of the grandest girls we know leave the sorority house forever. This year there are thirteen. Jo Wood, our President and well known cadet colonel, leads the exodus. Following her, comes Katy Freeman, whose accordian music and mischevious smile we'll all miss; Betty Johnson, the Alpha Chi wit, and Dort Behler, our stabilizer.

Third floor will be practically emptied after graduation. Leaving are, Mary Lib Smith, who has had enough experience managing the house to run any home efficiently; Thea Pierson, and her collection of dresses that she has made during her college life; Ginnie Mack, the Alpha Chi actress and a girl whose personality will be hard to replace, and Ernestine Nickerson and her infectuous laugh.

The three roommates follow: Betty Jean Panter, whose absence will leave the long distance telephone operator for Chicago with less to do; Sally Denman, our politician Senior class officer, and the last of the third floor gang, Beth Sibley, ex-president of Practice House 5.

Then there are the two out-of-the house seniors, Jean Taylor and Jean Fjetland Callaghan. Miss T. will be leaving her test tubes behind her forever while Fjet, one of our most active girls dramatically, will find plenty to do keeping house for Jack (Lion's Den) Callaghan.

ALPHA GAMMA DELTA

Muriel Duus with a tap of the gavel says,
"Come on, girls, we've lots to do—
It's time for meeting and we must get through."
Quietly, Joyce Stellberger gives her remark,
"Scholarship, girls, we must make our marks."
There's always a smile on Marg Barrett's face,
And in everyone's heart she holds a place.
Marg Andre's a beauty 'tis easily seen
For Blue Key chose her their gracious queen.
"Where's my snow suit," says Jean Swart with a shout
"I'm off for a ride in that jalop with Bob Stout."
And Helen Brown, with a soft, sweet smile
Asks, "Won't you come down and bowl awhile."
Betty Koronski, our Winter Queen
Has time to skate with dates between.
M. J. Martin not only acts but sings,
And to the Alpha Gams much joy she brings.

Doris French is a beauty, we all must agree
She's really worthwhile, and easy to see.
Gret Pryor's a girl who has had plenty to do,
She made Merrill Palmer and Omicron Nu.
A certain Phys. Ed. spends her time in the gym.
Connie Johnson's a gal that really can swim.
A girl who has boosted our activities high
Is A. M. Holmes. More like her we cry!
Marion Roberts who is everyone's pal—
Has a winning way and is one smooth gal.
Marion Durst is striking in looks.
But she also can talk like Baby Snooks.
Alice Hagman, tiny and quiet with pretty dark curls
But dynamite comes in small packages, girls!
A chem. major by choice is Naomi McNeal,
But a jitterbug by heart any dance will reveal.
And Rachel Stiles says with a slow, sweet smile,
"I'll be ready, just wait awhile."

This year graduation claims three of our members. They are Marion Bently, Alice Creesman and Prexy Hankinson.

Marion Bentley has been a most efficient treasurer and we wonder how anyone else will juggle the figures half as well. Bent has been very cooperative and helpful; perhaps being a psych major has something to do with that.

Alice Cressman is one of the busiest girls in the whole house. Between that Ann Arbor man, Home Ec. student teaching and activities, she hasn't had many minutes to waste.

Then there's Prexy Hankinson, the little gal with the big brown eyes. Barb, more commonly known as Hank has been a very efficient and popular president and deserves much credit for her leadership during this first year in the new house. She has also been active in Pan-hellenic Council for the past two years and fall term was elected and initiated into the Spanish honorary, La Cofradia.

ALPHA PHI

The alums are going to have a hard time awarding the jeweled pin to the outstanding senior. High on the list of the girls vying for this honor is president Louise Kennedy, to whom everyone runs with her problems. And the pledges will certainly miss Cissy's mothering and her very friendly smile. We think we'd give the pin to Marian Hollard; anyone who is going to be a Latin teacher should get something. A girl who keeps the house average up is Carter Gould of whom we never see enough.

Recently when the alums came for a visit, a number of the girls were not home. Shep was down in Illinois seeing Ross Martin and Marg Pemberton was playing golf. Chris Cross was out with one of her innumerable men and Betty Flower had just dashed out of the house with her tennis racquet. But exuberant Squirrely Harrison was running madly in and out of Betty Dewey's room where the latter was curled up reading the New Yorker. Dottie Arnold was trying to get Jean Johnson to quiet her blaring radio.

And then to cap the climax, when it came time to give out the pin Sleepy Switzer was late!

"Memories" will be our theme song this spring when we think of the twelve seniors who are graduating. We'll remember Mary Jane Blue, our president, with a mania for pie and pie parties, and Betty Flomerfelt and Eloise Baker who spend hours practicing Hawaiian dances and jitterbug steps.

The bridge fousome will be shy two girls when Catherine Morris and Ruth Peterson are gone; the ever present source for our social ideas will go with Eleanor Wendt.

There will be no more dissertations on psychology and philosophy when Hettie Hanson graduates, and Betty Geagley will not be continually worrying about her Matrix meetings. Home coming and party decorations will suffer a relapse without Norma Lou Arnold to spur them on.

Kay Cowing will not be around to ask our advice on "should I wear any shoes to the dance?" The girls on second floor will have to band together and buy a typewriter when Catherine Potter leaves and takes hers away. We will not find Barbara (Booth) Rockenbach at the baseball and volleyball games any more, because she's gone athletic in a big way and is married to the coach at Howell.

CHI OMEGA

Another graduation, and Chi Omega wishes that its fifteen graduates could come back and do everything all over again.

We wish Jean Bills were coming back to welcome us into the Wolverine office . . . we wish personnel chairman Dottie Schubach could stick around and smooth our troubles for another year . . . we wish Marian Pugsley's smile would stay to warm us and her row of honorary pins to inspire us.

We'll miss Corinne Ross for her social whirl and yen for dramatics . . . Bee Blasko for her all night study vigils and efficiency with Chi Omega dues . . . Dana Mae Barton for her amazing willowyness and knockout clothes . . . Mary Halsey for the effortlessly high marks and bridge "fiendishness" that we lost fall term, when she graduated to a Flint teaching job . . .

We'll miss the husky voice of Isabelle Sage, Lake Forrest transfer . . . the campus enthusiasm and sudden shifts from seriousness to hilarity, of Margie Baldwin, A. W. S. president . . . the vivacity of Dorothy Price, especially when she's dining with the lecture board and a visiting celebrity.

Other things we'd rather not do without: Betty Randall's Phi Delt pin and her perpetual knitting at meetings . . . Shirley Van Auken's La Salle and accounting proficiency . . . Vonny Bow's huge, rolling eyes, her prowess at scattering bowling pins . . . Betty Johnson's geniality and accuracy in getting down the minutes . . . and also we'll be wishing Virginia Baxter were back to ask about the old and new business.

School days come and go and with them this year we regretfully bid farewell to four of our sisters. There is Betty Kamins Goldstein, who took the fatal step last summer and has proved to us that one can be a perfect wife and two-pointer at the same time. How can we ever forget the wonderful parties at her new home and the lavish spreads.

Betty Rosenblum with her personality plus who spent her senior year in a Detroit lab, is leaving for good with a diploma. Two of our sisters will spend the next year interning for diatetics, Rhea Kaufman, our Merrill-Palmer girl, and Annette Rachman, Pan-hell representative. Best of luck to you all!

KAPPA ALPHA THETA

The Thetas are still striving desperately to maintain their average scholarship but Barbie Boucher, chairman, seems to be fighting the evil forces alone by intermittently calling out "Quiet Hours" in a very meek voice. On the other side of the fence Mim Nickle, Coast Artillery corps sponsor, and Jeannie Widick, A. W. S. Vice-Prexy, sing out the day's events in their disturbing midnight showers.

Then there's Muriel Spittle, pledge trainer, who is trying to produce a model pledge class and is having just enough lack of success to make them good pledges. But Prexy, Helen Cawood, is trying in true presidentship manner to keep us all up to par, including Marje Erb who insists on day-dreaming about those love, honor and obey words that will soon change her to "Mrs."

The Senior social life suffered greatly this year after the graduation of all the steadies last June, but Annie Bryant is still valiantly carrying the colors. Alice Elaine Godfrey cheers her roommate on while she joins the ranks of the Graduation Widows as Bob "Mouse" Frank receives his diploma.

Social chairman Eleanor "Disie" Dise is carrying a full schedule which includes Bill from Detroit along with Faculty Teas and term parties. But Lynn "Weekend in Detroit" Owen knows nothing of these.

The extra-curricular activity demons Betty Jane Mills and Jean Sprinkle are sadly reluctant to give up their presidency and senior cabinet offices in Y.W.C.A. But Jeanne "Frisby" Caldwell is far from reluctant to say goodbye to Math courses but not to her sparkling social life without a tear in her eye.

Sally Baxter is looking forward to graduation just as anxiously as the rest of the seniors and too dreads facing the cold, cruel world.

HELENE HARROW	President
CAROLYN TUNSTALL	Vice-President
JEAN McDONALD	Secretary
RUTH HOOGESTEGER	Treasurer

Only seven caps and gowns in the Kappa Delta House this spring, but we wish there were fewer.

We're in a quandry trying to puzzle out just how we'll manage without our attractive yet efficient prexy, Helene Harrow. And another K D will have to call the roll and read the minutes for Jean McDonald next fall, for Mac changes from Kappa Delta secretary into a social worker this June.

Marthagene Biggs made us mighty proud of her when she came home with her Phi Kappa Phi pin. With her work as vice-president of LaCofradia and on the Inter-Faith Council, Biggsy spent what seemed like the greater part of her time on the telephone this year.

Little Pat McKiddy leaves a big place to fill at the house. Being president of the Pan-hellenic Council and Corps Sponsor of the Cavalry are two activities that have kept her pretty busy this year.

It's also goodbye to Jean Warner and Jean Wilson who will receive their coveted sheepskins from the Home Ec. and Phys. Ed. Departments respectively.

Last of all, we'll certainly miss the fun we've had with Esther "Piff" Pfanenschmidt and her puddle-jumper, Babe.

KAPPA KAPPA GAMMA

Comes June and fourteen Kappa keys will be missing from the house, but their owners will leave behind memories of: President Peaches Schooley's tales of St. Pete., Florida, collecting ducats at the tea dances . . . Betty Johnston, her blond curls, keeping the Phi Delt alumni adviser in tow . . . Ann Backstrom, math shark, and her wicked curve (in bowling) . . . Anna Jean Robertson, glamorous Band Sponsor, and her collection of fraternity jewelry . . . Betty Nonenpreger finally acquiring her sheepskin, and dreaming up a position as phys. ed. teacher . . .

Ginny Bodmer's long distance calls to Toledo, and her everlasting "honestly" . . . Marian Kasischke slinging cokes in the Union Grill for institution management . . . Trudy Rapp's joint bank account with a Kenyon Deke . . . Mary Helen Childs' knitting, and singing voice three octaves below anyone else's . . . Flossie Willson's monopoly on the card room . . . Mary Ag Smith dashing around week-ends in that Luthy Piston Ring car . . . Betty Lou Kauer's infectious giggle over anything . . . Dora Gower's attempts at being hard-boiled in pledge meetings . . . and Mardi Meier, who has such big eyes for such a little girl.

Sigma Kappa seniors, 13 strong, found good luck in a traditionally bad number as early as last fall when they began housekeeping activities in a brand new Georgian colonial house on MAC avenue.

When Sigma Kappa sisters return to the halls of academies they will miss blond and petulant Helen Basler's eternal wail, "You should see those brats I'm trying to teach this year"; they won't see Naomi Croel clumping around in low heels asking how much it costs to go to Schenectady; they'll wonder who Eloise (Stevie) Crell finds to get her to work on time; they'll miss Jane Cook when they need a smiling worker to get tough things done.

Pat Fowley the blond bombshell from Bay City won't be around trying to catch up on her sleep and Christine Horn won't be there to say, of friends and enemies alike, "You old goat, you!" Dottie Hunter and Mary Alice Work will no longer answer the perpetual call up the stairs, "Those men are here again." And smiling Eleanor Kinney won't be rushing around making things right for everyone and her little sister.

The returners-to-education will miss Mary Scott and the way she makes everyone feel at home and it will seem strange not to find Marie Toth curled up in a big chair bidding five no-trump. Petite Jeanne Visel with her ever ready answer, "Can't, I've got a meeting" will be gone and Jacqueline Snyder will know the toll charges on a person to person call to California.

SO PUT AWAY YOUR LASSOS.

Jean Kanters, Pat Fowley, Jean Driesbach, Marjorie Williams.

Betty Bushnell, Sylvia Jeanne Flick, Eleanor Kinney, Jane Cook.

ZETA TAU ALPHA

The turquoise blue and steel gray curtain of Zetas theater has rung down the last time for its four seniors. Curtain calls and white violets to Jean Fish for her splendid performance as Friendship Committee and her constant writing of Thank-you notes. To Melba Mickel for her ingenue part as the pretty young girl with the dimples and telephone calls. To Eleanor Turner for her versatility as the girl with the activities, but never so many that she couldn't cheerfully shoulder at least one more burden. And to Betty Preston who, no matter what she started out to be, always ended up treasurer of every organization she belonged to.

Highlights of the year were the up and coming debate team, plans for a big delegation at National convention down on the Gulf of Mexico this summer, and the steak dinners won by the class having the highest scholarship average each term.

Just to be original, Beta Rho has no seniors to say good-bye to . . . in fact, they have no juniors . . . nor any sophomores . . . just freshmen. The newest sorority on campus sprang into being during winter term, and since then has more than doubled its membership. Every woman answering roll call belongs to the class of '44.

During Beta Rho's short existence they have been concentrating on rush teas and details of organization. First came a flurry of blue prints and front elevation sketches for their new house, then the tremendous decision of where to build, then packs of plans for color schemes and room arrangements. Primarily a social sorority with national intentions, Beta Rho plans parties and entertainments and requires its members to participate in at least two extra-curricular activities. They were represented in the all-college variety show, the water carnival, and the Pan-hellenic sing.

Among the members are both the freshman class vice-president and secretary . . . and an A.W.S. representative.

Anybody that doesn't like this life is crazy. Quiet rooms to study in . . . if earthquakes don't bother you . . . no disturbing bull sessions . . . unless you call politics, war, religion and women good subjects to discuss . . . voices wafting through the halls . . . bellowing brothers notifying one of a phone call . . . nice soft beds, too . . . full of cracker crumbs . . . and long restful sleeps . . . a full five hours . . . some nights. Unless the alums are home . . . then you never see a bed. And the cooking . . . just like you'll get when you're married . . . you hope. Exchange dinners . . . date dinners . . . J-Hop and an assortment of rubber bands and paper clips to put the "soup and fish" together . . . what happened to my sport coat . . . where is my last clean shirt . . . Pardon me, I have some work for a pledge.

This year Alpha Epsilon Pi will lose some of the brothers who helped develop and lay the basis for the future growth of the chapter. The greatest loss will be the graduation of Herman Blum, whose calm thinking and sly humor has saved many of us from making mistakes. Richard Barscahk, who hopes to be practicing Veterinary Medicine shortly and Joseph Robbin, who regrets he will not be a college student for the rest of his life, are also leaving us. George Handler, who has won Varsity awards for track and football, received his degree at the end of Fall term; we will all miss the "Coach". Among the other men graduating are Louis Merdler, who is Chem. Engineer, Arnold Taylor, a music major, Jack Greenberg, graduate student in Bacteriology, Leonard Rand and Dan Rosenbaum, who has also won Varsity awards for track.

Fuzzy Granger with his windy orations and gusty comments.

The winning smile and cheery greeting of Don Stuewer, the athletic prowess and noisy but pleasing manner of Jack Woods . . . Tom Brown's literary plagiarisms . . . Ells Burall's distinctive toggery and back-room elecutions are numbered among our losses.

Corporal Parmelee, that military strategist and learned scientist . . . Jimmy Lamb, the happily wedded lad and lone wolf of business meeting frays . . . Gamblin' Al Lee famed for his card playing abilities and les affaires du coeur . . . cautious McCauley, who never refused a lovely mink a date, and who seldom muffed a chance to squelch any snatch on that sacred treasury.

Prexy Boerema, the ex-Hatchet Club founder . . . Ruffernacob Holdzkom, who had his difficulties going steady with two women at one time . . . Merrit "I'm expecting a call from Detroit'. Reeves with his windmill cravats . . . Shirley Giddings and Wanser Holcomb managed to extend their stay in this institution, but after five years they are about ready to leave.

McKinley got a head start and left us at Christmas time, but Count Patenge and Whistlepop Hislop waited until June for the rest of the boys . . . Edmond "Punkin' " Frost, treasurer, and his chuckles of glee when the brothers paid their house bill . . . and Winston "Windy" Lewis, North Halls own private date bureau.

Edwin "2.4" Maki's secret formula for good grades with no studying, and his fine looking cars, . . . Charles "Eskimo" Spalding opening all the windows in the dorm, and his weekend trips to Saginaw, yes, a girl . . . Hank Stafseth's 200 games in bowling when they were needed the most, and his four years as No. 6 man on the golf team . . . George Stelljes' do-or-die spirit after five years in college . . . Ralph "Diz" Toles supplying the house with the main course for pheasant dinners every season, and his Morpheus mumblings . . . and last Blackie, the gargantuan mascot, proudly wearing his brass studded harness and his Beta Kappa coat, and his envious title of the only one in the house who could out-sleep Beard.

Thirteen Seniors will snatch the sheepskin this spring and bid the house farewell, not without bequeathing furniture, books, and graduate advice to those still in the house for a while.

We hope that the boys will be able to recognize Matthewson in a pair of long trousers . . . and who will forget Daron Harden's seconds before any one else, or the night he smoked a whole cigar . . . George Bedell will be remembered for his handwriting, which he himself could not read . . . A campus band will lose business as "Plug, plug" reed-chewing Parker Rowe leaves an empty chair on the orchestra committees . . . if anyone should ever want to run a mansion on $10.00 a week, just contact Gordon Hogle, the financial wizard.

How will we ever get along without Chuck Michalski's "Confidential Announcement" at the dinner table? . . . Moose Meyer's ability to get high grades with a minimum amount of study will be a subject of discussion for our grandchildren . . . Also the pranks of his brother Charles . . . Things will be dead around the house with Bob Smith and his radical ideas leaving—his Bureau of Student Opinion is one of his radical ideas . . . And the lightbills should drop now that Bud Cornelius isn't here to study way, way into the night . . . The decoration committees will miss the artistic ability of Ed Atkins who thinks his battered Ford will get him places . . . The engineers are going to get a good man when Jack Kingscott joins the ranks. The golden (We're off the gold standard) voice of Wayne Kentucky Colonel Boyle will be missed when it comes to the songfests at the table . . . O.K. boys, you're on your own.

HERE'LL BE SPATS NEXT WEEK.

Treasurer Anderson, looking forward to spending a year in the army—he heard that dancing is one of the main week-end entertainments . . . Denis "Denny" Caul says that he will be satisfied if he can land a job teaching Vocational Agriculture . . . McRae is looking forward to coaching a State High School Championship football team . . . Miles "Dutch" Newell plans to farm in Indiana, while Bill Koning is headed for home to do the same . . . Ray "Doc" Ely hasn't made his plans known, but "Willy" Lyons is still looking for a job with the U. S. Forestry.

HESPERIAN

The jovial month of June finds eight of the brothers engaging in the last trunk-packing exercises of their college careers.

We wish them well, these men of Hesperus, and we'll miss them too—miss Bob Whitsit who will have to get married and raise a flock of young now that he won't have "the boys" to worry about. The scholarship committee is beating its collective head against the wall in agony to see Sam Horton and Rob Rafferty, our two finest "average raisers" leave.

Chris will have to worry about the new rugs alone, now that Bud Wilson won't be here to keep the gang from spilling ashes. Senior class president Jim Otto and Wolverine editor Merz will probably never go to another formal party now that their supply of comps is being cut off.

The more devotional members are saddened as they realize that Reverend Rischman and deacon Dodge will no longer be present to deliver their inspirational sermons in the room 8 chapel (Stop chewing that can, deacon). It's been a great four years fellows, and we're sorry to see you go.

Eleven brothers are leaving the Castle: Snoozy Bingham will no longer be seen prone on floors, chairs, davenports, etc . . . Lantern Jaw Rovick's jokes and general noise will be absent from the halls . . . Mouse Frank is leaving—sign over his candy concession to some gullible underclassman . . . Little Bus Ringelberg will leave plenty much space vacated . . . King Keating will be missed by Delta Psi as well as the Kappas . . . Granny-diametrically-across Sharpe will leave his problems and reports but flatly refuses to forget his slip-stick . . . draftee Lehman will leave for Uncle Sam's fresh air camp and is dismayed by the fact that he cannot squeeze a piano into his trunk . . . Ray-no-I-haven't-got-a-date-all-I-tried-to-do-was-kiss-her-Roland will no more bedeck the Castle with hill-billy cartoons . . . Mister Ely, recently wed, will leave Olds Hall for his E. Lansing nest . . . Get-on-the-ball-it's-the-20th-of-the-month-Smith will leave a very low Accts. Rec., his boogi-woogi and bass-slapping will long be remembered . . . Prexy Harrington will return shortly in a station-wagon with watchful eyes cast for unmanaged farms . . . Man, this castle has been forsaken!

George Warner, Ted Himmelein, Ed Sewell, Granville Sharpe.

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA

The numbers are up and the results show 15 seniors drafted out of school and into the Working Army.

Bill Babcock, one-time house president, foregoes kitchen-police duty to join the engineering ranks; John Shedd, another former president, takes with him his Cord coupe, leaving room for two more cars in the parking lot; George MacQueen (draft call number 52) stands at attention ready to grace the army with his presence.

Bud "Sunshine" Tice, full-back on the All-Fraternity touch football team, and practically a married man; Eldon "Rosie" Rosegart, band drum major and purveyor of bum jokes; Bill Wilson, R. O. T. C. cavalryman and four year commuter between Lansing and East Lansing; Dan "Throw away your books" Moir, who believes two dates a term is par; Bill Porter (I'm big, and tough, and I'm nasty), who made his marks with the minimum of effort; Clancey Gettle leaves the house with a mystery; is it the girl back home that he is true to, or has he no use for women?

Roll call is not finished, but space only allows us to say, Jim Culby, Arnold Schultz, Kerm Ellison, Earl Peterson, Bela Kennedy and Bill Berg, Omicron won't forget you.

Continue the march, gang, but remember to do an about face often and drop in at the old Lambda Chi house. Bon voyage!

The Phi Chis are the proud possessors of a new house this year. The boys were so anxious to live in their new domicile, they moved in a week before school began. Great was their dismay when they had to retire the first night on a soft bed of oak planks.

In their exodus the class of '41 takes with them six seniors. How could we forget laughing Swede Swanson, his "Hey ya know"? or fireman Schmeling saying, "To heck with that—I have to study", and maybe on some future date we'll tip our glasses in a toast to that master of toastmasters Don Kilbourn. We'll always remember shorty Al Hoover—but then, dynamite comes in small packages; then there's Doc Kloker and Phi Chi Vet headquarters. Where will we find another who will serve us so faithfully in his capacity as House Physician and Medical Adviser? Mustn't forget glamour boy, politician, and Veterinarian Eugene Eades—How's married life? For your future success, our best wishes.

HEY WANT A BONUS.

John Reynolds, Jim Bauman, Francis Yabsley.

Alton Hoover, Marvin Hansen, Cliff Huntoon.

PHI DELTA THETA

Eleven of the nineteen cars at the house leave us this spring with our graduating seniors. Bob Harris who has manfully peddled his velociped through the campus for four years plans to take it to camp with him. Andy Hayes—his presidencies, his Thetas, and his politics will not soon be forgotten. The bathtub will miss the daily workout of Don Ladd which led Don to the captaincy of the swimming team. Herb Joslin is now living in luxury on the profit he made selling the boys sport coats.

Memories of Al Moran and his penny pinching policies as treasurer still haunt some of us. Who will forget the pledge who thought that Bob Lowe was a summer resort? The house allowed Bob Iddings to break a house tradition in that he didn't have to pass cigars EVERY time he passed his pin—we couldn't keep up with him. Organizer Joe Goundie and his ski trains, political parades, and honoraries will also leave us. Bob Young, who was never seen without his military uniform, will use it all next year in camp.

As ten sad seniors file down the brick lined walk before the Phi Tau house, thoughts still remain of politics, campus activities, athletics, ROTC, champeroned parties, and all those left behind.

Never to be forgotten by the brothers remaining will be Prexy Fred Colwell, head of Sigma Gamma Upsilon, with his interests in varsity football and that Tri-Delt from the good old state of Iowa . . . John "Dean Call" Burhans, Cadet Officers Club President, with his subtle and winning ways in campus politics . . . Bud "Rhumba" Hicks whose beaten path to the Theta keyhole now grows grass since he found a Kappa Key (His Phi Tau pin is still in New York) . . . Handsome Dave Laidlaw's ability in football and his glamorous Chi Omega queen . . . Harry Jackson's numerous trips to the Alpha Chi house and his breath-taking last minute submission of patrons . . . Jack Grigsby's winning ways with East Mayo's best, Eleanor Shaw . . . Bill Porteous, varsity track manager and his desire for a good time . . . Ted "Casanova" Jennens' interest in CAA and all that goes with it . . . Jay Jennings work on harmonizing our vocal efforts . . . Minard "Ironhead" Mumaw, who combines a 2.5 average with fighting for the right of the minority on Monday nights.

PI KAPPA PHI

June is here again, and another gang of Pi Kapps will soon be leaving for good. It will seem strange without them. We will miss Trapper Man and his plaid shirts, boots, and ancient sports roadster . . . Willie Merrill with his military boots and big smile . . . Dick Kirkpatrick and his great feminine following . . . Bill Zavitz, who struggled through four years of college with only fourteen hours of sleep each day . . . Bob Vanderveld and his fiery orations at house meetings . . . Pat Patzer and his passion for bridge . . Archon Dick Jones, the key man at the house for the last year, with his sagging watch chain, his passion for nurses and engineering, and his relentless attitude toward those who would sleep through their eight o'clocks. We wish them lots of luck and hope to see them back often.

Conscription will be quite the thing for the graduating seniors out at the Sig Alph Club this June. Some will be conscripted by Uncle Sam, some by the wily females, and some, we hope, by jobs. Captain Blood Ed Abdo to the Artillery or a coaching berth; Keys Fred Backstrom to the Cavalry or the cops; Big Buck Jim Bull and Conns Clothes John Schaffer definitely to Custer in July; Hedge Dick Bush to the Artillery or the tall timber; Desk Clerk Dick Haussman to the hostelry racket; "Ask the man who owns one" Tom Kent to the Cavalry or to selling lots in Pontiac; Smokey Gus Kilborn to being a professional Ham or to sawing bones in Ithaca; G-Man Bill Mallory to the Infantry or the cops; Glamour boy Ralph Norvell to the Infantry or to directing and promoting cereals over the radio; Santa Claus Ed Pogor back to the Resurrection berth if Elmer Layden doesn't resign; Grunt and Groan Bennie Riggs to keeping books on an Oklahoma oil well; Sheriff Dick Sawyer to the bench or the bar; Pea Head Hedley Stacy to the cassock and cotta; Scrooge Hugh Taylor to the test tubes of Seagram's; and the Sage of Newport Don O'Brien definitely to the Vet Corp.

SIGMA NU

"As the Caissons Go Rolling Along" might well be the theme song of the graduating Sigma Nus this year. With the graduation of Field Artillery officers Truman Bishop, Dick Groening, Maurie Hawkins, Matt Tinkham, and Jack Twist, it looks like the army will swell its ranks, while 'OI Jim Lepine of G.L.F. is our Infantry officer for Uncle Sam . . .

Matt Tinkham plans on a law career, and Maurie Hawkins has hopes of being a telephone company executive . . . Jack Twist has super-salesman aspirations, and Truman will probably become Mayor of Cement City . . . Public Relations is the field for politician Dick Groening, and for Jim Lepine, a career as Congressman in New York State . . . Slugger Main, our handsome baseball hopeful, ought to land a movie contract or a blond—probably the latter . . .

As a department store executive and sales manager we present Ace Leahy . . Our varsity football seniors, Bill Batchelor and Paul Griffith, both honorable mention on Hearst's all American, see careers as businessmen in the offing . . . Buck Burgess, the literary genius, who writes in that New Yorker style has all of the magazines in the country clamoring for his services . . . And Gene McCleary, a No. 1 chem engineer, manager of the varsity baseball squad is a potential steel magnate.

ALPHA CHI SIGMA

Alpha Chi Sigma, national chemistry honorary, is the only professional fraternity with a house on campus.

Professional smokers, chemistry displays, and the Chem Booster Banquet are held annually to promote chemistry as a science and a profession. The Up-the River party for freshmen is given during spring term. "Filter Paper", a magazine edited by Alpha Chi Sigma, is published once each term.

Purposes of Alpha Chi Sigma are threefold: to bind together members in a lasting friendship; to strive as a body for advancement in the world of chemistry, and to aid members in personal attainment.

Men who show promise and who intend to devote their lives to chemical engineering are pledged on a selective basis. Functioning much like a social fraternity, Alpha Chi Sigma rushes, pledges, and formally initiates men selected.

Originating at the University of Wisconsin more than 25 years ago, the local chapter was organized here 11 years ago.

DORMS AND COOPS

Girls by the hundreds . . . lines for breakfast . . . hustling for that eight o'clock . . . looking for the "mail in" sign . . . arguing about the blonde you saw Joe with . . . Taking messages for roomie . . . bull sessions when you ought to be studying . . . radio parties . . . exchange dinners. It all adds up to life in a women's dorm . . .

Men . . . and no restricting hours . . . general bustle as the dorm comes to life . . . after a long night's sleep . . . possibly four and a half hours . . . if you didn't get in an argument . . . or maybe get your spirits dampened by a wastebasket full of water . . . telephone calls to your girl . . . or your room mate's . . . trying to get talked out of studying . . . subtract your last term's point average and it adds up to life in a men's dorm.

MASON AND ABBOT HALLS FROM THE AIR

All students residing in Mason or Abbot Halls automatically become members of Mason-Abbot Club. Its purpose is to direct and unify the activities of the halls.

The government is of a representative type, consisting of the Judiciary Committee and the General Council. The Committee is made up of the eighteen counselors, one from each precinct, and the Resident Hall advisers, and it investigates all complaints or violations of the constitution, rules and regulations, and makes recommendations regarding them to the General Council. The Council acts as the legislative body of Mason-Abbot Club, and is composed of the counselors, who are appointed by the Dean of Men and two representatives from each precinct, who are elected by the members residing there.

The club functions under the direction of Mr. Curtis Beachum. Dr. and Mrs. Luker serve as resident adviser and social hostess in Mason, and Mr. and Mrs. Goodwin serve in the same capacities in Abbot. The officers are selected from the eighteen counselors and elected by the General Council for one term.

The Social committee of the club consists of one social representative from each precinct and the Vice-President of the General Council, who acts as chairman, and the hostesses, who are the advisers.

The club not only claims men from almost every state in the Union, but also has members from many foreign countries. These students are Celestino Dominguez, from Guayama, Porto Rico, Jose Navarro, Maunabo, Porto Rico, Wilfred Friedman, Quebec, Henry Simons, Colon, Panama, and Singkata Tongyai, from Bangkok.

Named for Stevens T. Mason, Michigan's first governor, Mason Hall was the first dormitory to be built in a planned quadrangle which sometime will house all independent men students. The government of its 438 residents is very democratic. Each of the nine precincts or divisions are represented in the Mason-Abbott General Council by two elected men. The executive element in the Mason is Dr. Leonard J. Luker, Assistant Professor of Education and Resident Manager of Mason Hall.

The counselors act as "go betweens" for the individual students and the administration. The counselor's room is invariably a clearing house for all types of information ranging from study problems to specific information on a prospective date. To him also falls the rather unpopular job of maintaining quiet hours, which are in effect every night with the exception of Saturday.

Socially the Masonites are guided by the very capable and charming Resident Manager's wife, Mrs. Luker, who acts as Social Hostess. A social committee, composed of one representative from each precinct, plans the various social functions which are sponsored. Weekly radio parties, frequent exchange dinners with the women's dorms, and the usual big party of each term are only some of the social opportunities which are offered to the residents.

Facilities for recreation include pool tables, ping pong equipment, and inlaid tables for chess and checkers. Besides these things, regular subscriptions are maintained for several of the more popular periodicals as well as daily newspapers.

Interests around Abbot Hall changed a little from the previous year. The idea of lining the mantel with pennies for records was abandoned, the fellows seeming to feel that the prospective twenty-one a month salary prevented the distribution of even minor coins, and no one seemed to think of driving a Model T. Ford into the lobby, as last year. Instead, they concentrated on the successful staging of the Mason-Abbot Revue, in which various huskies represented feathery footed ballerinas, so-called democratic dictators and the like. All the jokes weren't good, but everybody had a swell time and it looks like a yearly institution.

Mr. Goodwin painlessly managed the unruly element whose favorite pastime included letting firecrackers go off anywhere from 8:00 p.m. till dawn, lighting fires in the halls and then flooding everything but the fire. And the planned entertainment, less robust but more acceptable to the authorities, was given the enthusiastic and undivided attention of Mrs. Goodwin, who seems to be the only person to have discovered the secret of perpetual motion. As social hostess she took care of all the parties, dinners, and dances and inaugurated a bridge tournament successfully. A good year.

All but two of the rooms in each division are double. The front rooms overlook the heart of the campus; from the back rooms can be heard the sound of the Red Cedar flowing over the dam.

The separate sections are under the common supervision of a joint council consisting of the six division councilors and the two representatives of each division. Mr. Dave Trafelet, resident manager, serves in the capacity of an ex-officio member.

The Wells Hall of all previous years was unique in that membership in the boarding club was purely optional, and not limited to residents of Wells. But this year the system has been altered, and all men living in the hall must eat there.

The inside of the hall has been completely redecorated with new doors and transoms and a shrill black telephone in each division. The outside is the Wells Hall of pre-war days with it's six dormers and ivy vines running at all angles over the walls, and fond memories of the old club "D" unknown to the men of "44" but pertinent in the minds of the grads of "10", "11", and "12".

Hedrick Cooperative, the first men's cooperative house at M.S.C., started operation in January, 1940. It was formed to enable men to go through college on a high living standard at minimum expense. This is accomplished through the cooperative sharing of labor, money, and knowledge, as all the work, planning, and financing in the house is done by its members. By participation in the management of this organization its members gain valuable experience in democratic procedure, practical business methods, and household arts. The fellows do all their own cooking and housekeeping.

Some of the major principles of the organization are open membership; political, religious, and social neutrality; one vote per member; and a continuous cooperative educational program.

Thus far the venture has been a success. Plans are being laid for the purchase of a house for next year.

The newest and largest of the men's cooperative houses on campus was put into operation in the fall of 1940. It represents individual enterprise of its charter members; the purchase of a home and the incorporation thereof for the complete protection of its members.

The purpose of the co-op is to provide a high standard of living at low cost, to foster good fellowship and cooperation, and to give practical experience in operating a business organization. Additional experience is gained by operating a boarding club.

Besides business activities, the Elsworth members engage in intramural sports and social activities, such as exchange dinners, roller skating parties, and an annual inter-co-op term party.

Louise Campbell Hall, located just west of the Union Building, is the newest dormitory on campus for girls. It is named after a former director of Home Economics.

The past year has been a busy one setting up standards and traditions, developing student government policies, and working out a social program for the dormitory, which functions as one unit. The policy of the house is to unify action, under student government, on all house problems through the presidents and their respective staffs elected every term from each wing. Elective officers from both sides compose the House Council. The addition of two unabridged dictionaries, two books on etiquette, and a recorder have been made from a general fund accumulated in the past two years. Books for leisure reading are procured by budget. Each term the dormitory sponsors a dance for the residents. Every month there is a birthday dinner, and on Sunday afternoons there are teas to which guests are invited.

The lounges are comfortable and roomy. The dining room is centrally located and all residents eat there. There are kitchenettes on each floor which are provided with ironing facilities and hot plates for incidental cooking. Each wing has a recreation room which offers a ping-pong table, card tables, and sewing facilities. The laundry is equipped with sleeve boards, stationary tubs, clothes and hair driers, and a new steam iron. A central smoking room accommodates all who wish to use it. The building houses 300 women; most of the rooms are designed for two, but there are a few single rooms and a "dorm room" in each wing.

Campbell's sunken, formal garden is one of the most attractive outdoor features of the dormitory. In the spring it is gay with lanterns for the term party; residents and passers-by enjoy the colorful array of tulips and the tinkle of the fountain. In the winter a life-sized snow-coed made by the girls reigns over the garden.

We'll always remember:

Entertaining Alumnae at Homecoming—pent-house dances—groups around the radio for Charlie McCarthy and other Sunday night programs—our house mothers—candlelight tea for faculty—stacks of bright packages under the Christmas tree, cheer for needy children—Yuletide carolers wending through corridors.

Formal party in the Auditorium—our court, scenes of snow-ball fights and serenades—a bridge game in our newly furnished smoker—our famous Sunday evening teas for Prexy and faculty and equally famous record-time midnight fire drills.

Our rush for mail and mad scramble to receive a call with the cry "Where's the phone?"—base-ball games viewed from west windows—"under the stars" dancing on the terrace—midnight cluster of crammers in sun-room before finals—Alma Mater after Sunday dinner. The quiet picture of both housemothers-reading, and you sometimes wonder how two people can read so much and yet see so much. The little notes about the late minutes and the unmade beds. All this goes to make our reputation of one of the best, most popular dorms on the campus.

Mary Mayo, the oldest of the present women's dorms, has many fine traditions of which every woman who has lived there is proud. The most characteristic of these is the installation dinner given each term by the retiring house council in honor of the new officers. At this time lockets of Mary Mayo are given to members.

Mary Mayo was dedicated October 16, 1931, and named after a pioneer Michigan woman who was instrumental in obtaining for women at Michigan State their first dormitory, The Women's Building. A large picture of her is alternated between the East and West wing each year. Another distinctive feature of Mary Mayo is the large dolphin fountain which is on the terrace.

The dorm has two hundred forty-six women representing nine states. Among the activities is the unique Christmas party for sixty underprivileged children, a picnic on the terrace spring term and the usual term dances, radio parties, and Sunday evening teas.

Unforgetable highlights are the untimely fire drills with the housemothers counting noses, and the girls grumbling while they try to think of ways to stay in bed next time. The rattle of dishes in the kitchen when someone makes an announcement in the dining room, and the shuffling of feet and the wiggling of chairs as the girls wait for the housemother to signify the end of the evening meal; then the rush for the door.

North Hall and friendliness have become synonymous.

At capacity, 86 girls live in harmony, in spite of the fact that they all know their neighbors intimately. To these off-campus dormitoryites, the long walk seems compensated for by the pleasant atmosphere.

Generous to all, a deed of true kindness was illustrated when they took a tiny, homeless grey kitten in, named it Louie after their dead-end street, and trained him to polite adulthood via example. It's strictly off the record though, that Louie is reported temperamental.

Mrs. Milo B. Bunn, housemother, is a newcomer from the soils of Missouri and New Jersey. Fast becoming a loyal Michigander, she includes as her favorite hobbies: Louie, riding, golf, and bridge.

Fall term activities featured freshman orientation, a faculty tea honoring Mrs. Bunn, a term party with a football theme, birthday dinners, fire drills, Mason Hall exchange dinner, a Christmas party, and a wedding shower for a departing member.

Winter term was piloted to a successful close with a program including the all-dormitory term party, birthday dinners, entertainment of the Dean's office, and Mason Hall exchange dinner.

Mr. Ray Lamphear, better known as "Red", plans the meals, supervises the dining room, and keeps everything in repair. "Olie" Kelly, the janitor, lives next door and is always on call for leaky faucets and squeaking doors.

THE PRODUCTS OF MODERN INDUSTRY AVAILABLE TO ALL

The village blacksmith of song and story lingers in our cherished memories of the past. But people want more things today than the individual craftsman's hand alone can produce—such things as automobiles, radios, moving pictures, electric refrigeration, modern air conditioning, to mention only a few. And the only way to make those things available in sufficient quantities so that all may have them is by patient research, modern engineering, adequate production facilities and efficient organization.

Today you find the successor of the village blacksmith working in thousands of industries. The chief difference now is this—his income is higher; his standards of living are vastly improved; he and his family enjoy the fruits of their own and other people's labors to an extent undreamed of in the old days.

But the world is far from finished. In industrial laboratories and experimental shops the country over, practical men are working out still better ways of doing things—finding new avenues to better living. New products and processes will enable us all to make even more things for one another to use—and the more we make, the more we can have and enjoy.

Babs Zerbee takes Red Nichols' trumpet, apparently to usher in the 1941 formal season. Her date, Ed Karlson co-chairmaned the IFC-Pan hell party.

Wayne King swings as he signs at the Soph Prom.

Art Howland's boys just knoeking themselves out at the Blue-Key Excalibur party.

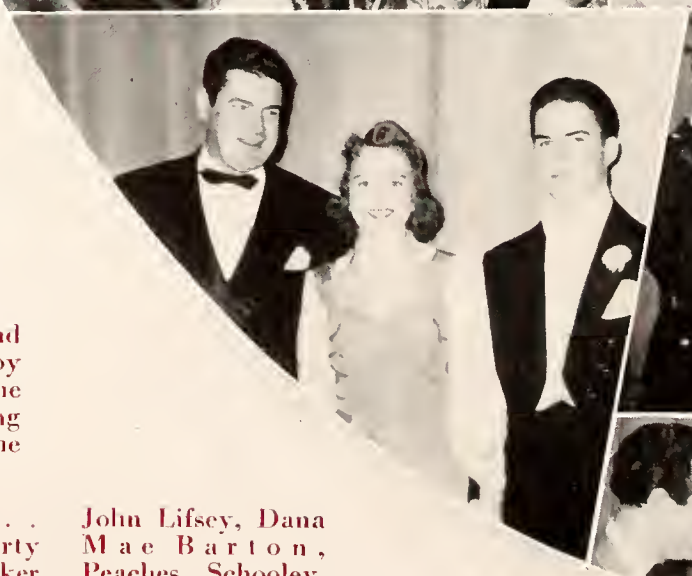
SENIOR BALL

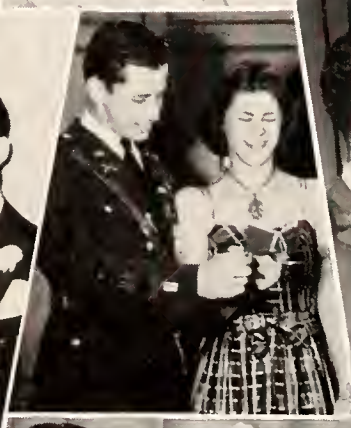
His name is Jan Savitt; the story is in the picture.

Everyone appears to be looking for somebody; maybe it's Ted Weems.

"King" John Lifsey proposes a toast to "Queen" Dana Mae Barton at the IFC-Pan hell party.



Herbie Kay poses with Barb Allen and Truman Bishop at the "Engine Ball".



Marywin Mathis giggles gleefully at Wolverine photog. John Wright.

Chet Kennedy and Alicia Lavers enjoy the mostest of the bestest by meeting Ted Weems at the Military Ball.

Musicians all . . . Jan Savitt, Marty Vial, and Parker Rowe exchange pleasantries at the Senior Ball.

John Lifsey, Dana Mae Barton, Peaches Schooley, Mim Nickle, and Alicia Lavers sing at the IFC-Pan hell party.

Herbie Kay has a pretty miss named Ellen Connors singing with his band. The Engineer's Ball of course.

Jim Otto, Senior class President, and Dana Mae Barton take time out from swinging to Savitt.

This Soph Prom crowd is more interested in Wayne King's orchestra than they are in mugging for the camera.

Michigan State College

Deare Folks:

I used the money you sent me last week for a new formal to attend the J-Hop given by the class of '42.

Tom Connelly, president of the class, and his date ——

—lead the Grand-March with President and Mrs. Shaw—

while Horace Hei and his band plays

Dick was a half-hour late — but we finally got started at 7:30. because his room-mate, Art Hand, couldn't get his shirt buttoned ——

We had a delicious meal — from there throughout the Pre-J-Hop dinner the ticket line and ——

into the party.

We ran into Helen MacDonald and John Burhans talking to Horace Heidt when out of the throng, Joe Ruhe and Alice Penny danced by. A little later we went downstairs and bumped into Howdy Pound having a smoke and talking like mad. We ventured back into the mob of dancers and then went backstage and got a different perespective of the party. ——

We danced until 12:00 — went out for intermission — then back to the party until 3:00. — It seemed like hours waiting for Dick to bring our wraps.

and then —
Good night m-m-m-m-m

Yours loving daughter—
Mary Anne

To a young man about to buy his first car—

NOW YOU ARE DECIDING. In a few days you will buy. You do not want our advice, nor do we want to give you any. This is your adventure. And that is as it should be.

But some things we can tell you now that are more than mere advice. They are things that have held good ever since we made the first Ford car thirty-eight years ago.

The first one is to buy your car, and not just let someone sell you one. Look deep as you go, and look in your own time. Don't let anyone press or hurry you. Don't be afraid to ask questions. It is your money that you will spend. And the car that you will choose is to be your companion.

Look under the hood. That has always been a good idea. And look behind the prices you are given so that you know what they include. Take a long and testing try-out run before you settle on any car.

Talk to owners of the makes you consider, and learn from their experience. Include owners of this year's cars, for things move fast in the world of motor cars, and yesterday can be a long, long time ago

And try a 1941 Ford. You'll find that we've designed and built it to serve you well and serve you long.

Some Ford Advantages for 1941:

NEW ROOMINESS. Bodies were both lengthened and widened in building this year's big new Ford, adding as much as 7 inches to seating width.

SOFT, QUIET RIDE. A new Ford ride, with new frame and stabilizer, softer springs and improved shock absorbers.

SMOOTH 8-CYLINDER POWER. An advantage still unmatched in its price field. With records for gas and oil economy as well as for performance.

BIG WINDOWS. Windshield and windows so increased all around that nearly four square feet of added glass goes into each '41 Ford Sedan.

LARGEST HYDRAULIC BRAKES in the Ford price field. 12-inch drums. For added safety, longer brake-lining wear.

ON MAINTAINING

LEADERSHIP . . .

- To win and consistently hold a place as the recognized leader of school annual printing, has been the record of Rogers Printing Company since its beginning in 1908.

- That we have, during a period of 32 years, successfully produced hundreds of annuals for schools throughout the country, attests our ability to satisfy completely the most discriminating Year Book Staff.

- New ideas, coupled with the knowledge and experience gained through a quarter of a century's service, insure the school that chooses a Rogers printed book of ideal pages "From Start to Finish."

- We are proud that the staff of THE WOLVERINE entrusted its printing to our organization and we herewith present it as an example of our work.

INDECO GUIDES TO BETTER ANNUALS

Since the turn of the century the Indianapolis Engraving Company, Inc., has maintained the highest standards of quality and intelligent cooperation, thus accounting for the continuous use of our service by many high schools, colleges and universities.

Indeco quality is the finest that modern equipment and skilled craftsmen can produce. Every engraving is unconditionally guaranteed to be a perfect printing plate and to give a faithful reproduction of your engraving copy.

Our service includes help in planning and designing, suggestions on how to get the best pictorial effects, assistance in preparation of engraving copy, and solving the many problems arising in making your book both an editorial and financial success.

The latest ideas in yearbook construction are offered to make the annual best meet the requirements of your particular school. Our "Service Manual" is a complete guide for the staff in their work.

Indeco planned yearbooks have long been recognized as being among the outstanding annuals of the country. You will be agreeably surprised, too, at the purchasing power of your budget. Write us asking for a complete explanation of the Indeco plan.

TAPES — RULES — PRECISION TOOLS

THE Shifting Scene HAS CHANGED!

-WITH Hydra-Matic Drive!*

THEY'VE even streamlined Hamlet! But the changes in the theatre are as nothing compared to the changes in driving brought about by Oldsmobile through Hydra-Matic Drive! Clutch-pushing is as obsolete as villains with handlebar mustaches—because there is no clutch in the car. Gear-shifting is as outmoded as the buskin—because gears shift themselves through four forward speeds. The result is better performance all around—swifter getaway from a standing start—smoother, quieter cruising—safer, surer traction on slippery streets—increased mileage on gasoline. And remember, Hydra-Matic is the only new drive that is completely automatic—the only new drive that gives you full accelerating power without manual shifting of gears. Get the modern attitude in your viewpoint toward motoring. Take the wheel of a stunning new Olds and drive the happy Hydra-Matic way!

★Optional at extra cost on all Olds models

HARBORNE'S

FOR FINE FOODS

Our singing Mr. Patton gives out.

On the way to the Michigan game.

No, she didn't faint; it's a metabolism test in Home Ec.

Mr. Schuster observes as artiste Piatigorsky tunes up.

Aw . . . you're just looking down 'cause we took the picture.

Virginia Haeger and Mary Lou Dodge. Don't you gals know you can get hung for hoss stealing . . . even if they are cavalry horses.

Batteries for the night: Spalink pitching — Laing receiving. It sure is Hell week.

Dear Mr. Ketcham: Due to the fact that you have such an enormous appetite, the college hospital finds it necessary to add $45.23 to your bill.
